General Salan Told To Take Command of Algeria From Junta

PARIS (AP) — The French government today ordered Gen. Raoul Salan to take over command of Algeria from an insurrectionist junta led by a tough paratroop officer.

In its first official action since being installed early today, the new cabinet of Premier Pierre Pflimlin also banned all public demonstrations throughout France and in Ageria.

Salan, commander of all troops in Algeria, was ordered to take full command in the North African Colony from paratroop Gen. Jacques Massu.

Massu demanded that President Renz Coty put wartime hero Gen. Charles De Gaulle at the head of a government outside politics. This would be a military dictatorship.

The cabnet told Salan to maintain law and order in the Algerian capital of Algiers and to guarantee the protection of lives and property.

Coty had ordered the army in Algeria to call off its insurrection against Premier Pflimln's government.

"In my capacity as chief of the army . . . I give you an order to fulfill your duties under the authority of the government of the French republic," Coty said in a message broadcast throughout the day from all French radio stations to Algeria.

The leader of the military junta which had seized power in the North African capital, paratroop Gen. Jacques Massu, meanwhile repeated his demand that Coty summon war-time hero General Charles de Gaulle from retirement to head a government "outside politics" — a military dictatorship.

Massu demanded that the war on the Algerian rebels be pushed vigorously to conclusion. In a new statement broadcast by Algiers radio he termed the Pflimlin Cabinet a "govtrnment of abandonment."

The Assembly reacted immediately to the military seizure of power in Algiers and in a post-midnight session voted Pflimlin into office 74-129. Coty installed the Cabinet at once.

The Assembly vote came after a day of wild rioting by French ultranationalists in Paris and Algiers. In the North African capital the mob sacked the U.S. information library and occupied the central government building, finally

Brush Clearing Is Begun for Rt. 45 Job

Clearing of brush and trees has been started for the improvement of Rt. 45, just south of Salem, and excavation for the new highway will begin in about two weeks, according to William E. Quicksall, deputy director for Division 11 of the Ohio Department of Highways in New Philadelphia.

Within a week or so the contractors, Sutton and Stewart, Inc., and Hatcher Bros., Inc. are expected to begin work on the bridge over the Erie Railroad. They are aiming for a July starting date on the structure spanning the Middle Fork of Little Beaver Creek.

The contractors making a joint low bid of $1,118,861 for the construction of the two structures and the 1.7 miles of new highway, met with representatives of the Highway Department, Ohio Bell Telephone and Ohio Edison Monday at Division 11 at a pre-construction conference.

The utilities people involved in the project said they hoped to have all of their work completed within seven weeks. This is not erpected to hold up the contractor since much can be done in getting the project underway despite the presence of any utilities.

Traffic will be maintained thr expected to hold up the contractor The completion date has been set for Aug. 31, 1959.

Generally, the improvement calls for a new pavement of 24 feet of reinforced concrete on a 44-foot roadway; a grade separation of the Erie Railroad with a continuous steel beam bridge (208 feet); and a continuous concrete slab bridge (136 feet) over Middle Fork of Little Beaver Creek.

The project prescribes the removal of over 700,000 cubic yards in the excavation.

'Salem's Prices Are Right' Contest Opens

A fascinating treasure hunt awaits shoppers who participate in the "Salem's Prices Are Right" contest which begins on Thursday and continues through Saturday, May 24.

"Salem's Prices Are Right" is a merchants and industry cooperative promotion unlike any event ever held here before and which is expected to attract thousands of persons from the Greater Salem Area.

IN AN EFFORT TO prove that Salem's prices are right, the retail merchants are sponsoring the contest in which everyone, except store employes, can take part. There are no gimmicks but there are 35 prizes, in addition to two grand prizes — an Eljer bathroom ensemble and a Servi-Center, the latest Youngstown Kitchens product which is just going on the market.

Additional copies of today's Salem News containing the entry blank for the "Salem's Prices Are Right" contest are obtainable at the News office or at the newsstands.

The rules are simple, so simple that many persons will find it hard to resist the temptation to enter. The official entry blank will be found on Page 25 of today's Salem News.

Troops Ordered To Caribbean After Assault

Venezuela Says No Outside Help Needed To Guard Americans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Battle-ready U.S. Marines and paratroopers, hastily dispatched to Caribbean bases, stood ready today to respond if Venezuela asks help in protecting Vice President Nixon.

President Eisenhower ordered 1,000 troops to the Caribbean Tuesday after angry, jeering street mobs in Caracas, Venezuela's capital, assaulted Nixon's automobile caravan with rocks, sticks and eggs.

Neither the vice president nor Mrs. Nixon was injured. But six Americans in their good will party were hurt, chiefly by glass from smashed car windows. It was the most vicious of a series of anti-U.S. outbursts since Nixon began his South American tour last month.

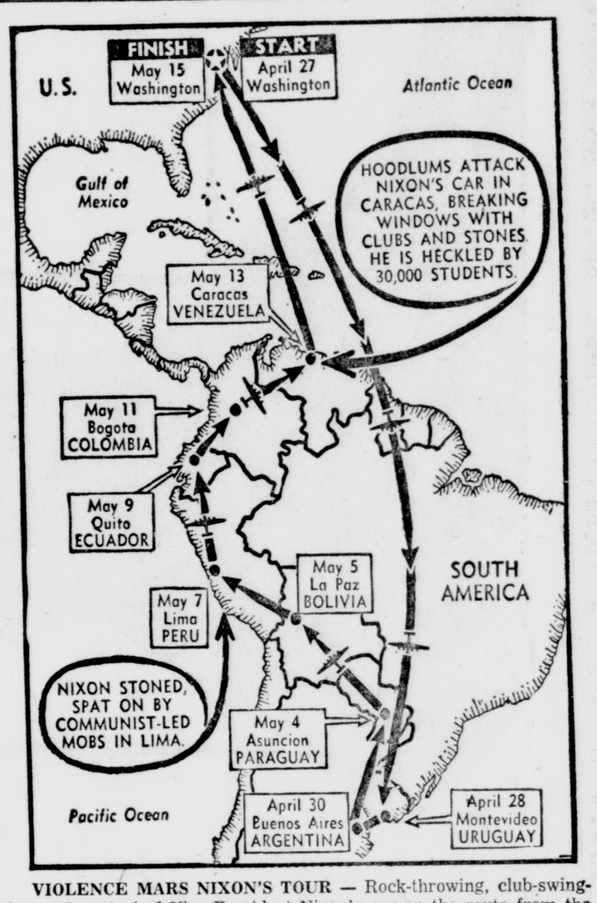
In announcing the dramatic airlift, the Defense Department emphasized it was a precautionary measure taken "to cooperate with the Venezuelan government if assistance is requested."

But Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal, who heads Venezuela's ruling military junta, later said the Nixon party would be protected fully without calling on U.S. troops.

The unexpected show of force brought mixed reaction from Congress. Some Senate Democrats condemned it as unnecessary and unfortunate. Senate Republicans generally defended the move.

Four companies of Marines and paratroopers were flown to U.S. bases in Cuba and Puerto Rico, and another company of Marines was ordered aboard the aircraft carrier Tarawa early today, also headed for the Caribbean area.

Veteran U.S. officials said it was the first time within memory that a goodwill tour by an American official resulted in the dispatching of troops.



VIOLENCE MARS NIXON'S TOUR — Rock-throwing, club-swinging mobs attacked Vice President Nixon's car on the route from the airport into Caracas, Venezuela, (see Newsmap) as he reached his last stop on a South American good-will tour. Screaming "Nixon go home," a crowd of 3,000 students heckled the vice president when he arrived in Caracas. Secretary of State Dulles has demanded that the Venezuelan government do everything to protect Nixon.

Decision Due Soon, County Group Told

River-Lake Road's Path Being Charted

Within the next 60 to 90 days, the State Highway Department expects to determine definiely what route the Ohio River - Lake Erie freeway will follow for most of its course between East Liverpool and Ashtabula, including a choice between two alternate rights-of-way through northern Columbiana county.

That report on the status of the plans for the $163 million express highway was given to 50 persons attending a meeting of the Lake Erie - Ohio River Highway Association Tuesday night at the Trumbull County Country Club in Warren, including an eight - man delegation from Columbiana county.

Will Meet Again

Robert E. Stockdale of Warren, public affairs officer for Division 11 and Divison 4 of the hghway department, explained that state and county officials will meet in the next two to three months with the four consulting engineering firms that have made surveys to help determine the freeway's route.

As the surveys led to several alternate proposals — especially in Columbiana and Mahoning counties — the Highway Department and the county officials must determine whirh route is best in each case, he explained. When the decisions are made, another meeting will be scheduled to pass on the details to the Highway Association, Stockdale added.

Stockdale and W. E. Quicksall, Division 11 engineer, indcat e d the Highway Department already has decided in favor of the so-called west alternate route for the River-Lake road's course through Columbiana county.

The Western Route

In the west alternate route, the new River-Lake freeway and Route 30 both would use the same four lane roadway from East Liverpool to a point just north and east of Lisbon. At that junction, Route 30 would swing sharply west and continue to the Stark county line and the River-Lake freeway would push almost directly north through the balance of the county. It would pass through northern Columbiana county just west of Columbiana village and enter Mahoning county west of Canfield.

The east alternate route would separate from Route 30 at Cannons Mills and head north, passing just east of Columbiana and entering

Court Action Taken Against Whiteleather

CLEVELAND (AP) — A petition for an injunction, to force Dr. P. Scott Whiteleather of Minerva to open his Columbiana County wheat farm to government crop surveyors, was filed in U. S. District Court here Tuesday.

Judge Paul Jones said he would ask for affidavits from both sides before setting a date for a hearing.

Asst. U. S. Atty. William J. O'Neill, who filed the petition, said he was "acting under the direction of the U. S. attorney general by request of the secretary of agriculture."

Government crop surveyors abandoned plans to inspect Dr. Whiteleather's farm last April 1 when they were met at the farm by about 200 Ohio "wheat rebels."

The agents wanted to determine whether the doctor, who is president of the Independent Farmers of Ohio, had overplanted his federal wheat allotment. He has been convicted of that offense twice and still owes the government $535 in court fines. U. S. marshals have seized a 1954 automobile belonging to the doctor to collect on the debt.

An outspoken foe of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, which prescribes wheat planting limist, Dr. Whiteleather says the act is unconstitutional.

Dallas Bishop To Take Stand

Jury Allowed To Hear Accused's Confession

LISBON — Dallas Bishop, 40, of Salineville, former East Liverpool policeman, was scheduled to take the stand in his own defense in Common Pleas Court today on a charge of burglarizing the Smith and Phillips furniture store in East Liverpool Oct. 19, 1952.

The prosecution this morning completed its case, which was climaxed by the admission Tuesday afternoon of a 12-page statement written by Bishop in March, 1956 following his arrest by Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan in the East Liverpool police scandal in which four policemen and two special officers were implicated.

Ruled admissable by Judge Raymond Buzzard despite an hour-and-a-half verbal fight by defense counsel to keep it from being read to the jury, Bishop's statement included an account of his entering the Smith and Phillips store in company with other East Liverpool officers and his theft of a radio and cushion.

Punctuated with details of his personal life, the rambling narrative also tells of other burglaries in East Liverpool and cities himself and other East Liverpool officers and special patrolmen as participants.

The jury was excused for two hours while Judge Buzzard heard arguments on whether to admit the statement.

During this interval Bishop took the stand and testified that Sheriff VanFossan had warned him after his arrest that he had better write the statement or get "the book" thrown at him.

In reply to a question from Prosecutor G. William Brokaw, Bishop said he wrote the statement to "get a break." He said 90 per cent of the statement was fiction.

He testified in answer to a query

Nixon Refuses To Cut Short Caracas Visit

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Vice President Nixon today refused to cut short his Venezuelan visit after narrowly escaping injury at the hands of howling, rock-throwing mobs. But he sat tight in the heavily guarded U. S. Embassy and canceled public appearances.

In a show of force President Eisenhower meanwhile rushed 1,000 Marines and paratroopers to U. S. bases in Cuba and Puerto Rico, only three hours flight time from Caracas. The U. S. Defense Department said they were available if the Venezuelan government sought assistance, but the country's ruling military junta showed no inclination to ask for such aid.

Junta chief Rear Adm Wolfgang Larrazabal gave assurance there would be no repetition of the riots in which spitting, stoning youths — apparently urged on by Communist agitators — injured six members of the Nixon parties and four Vtnezuelans greeting them as they arrived from Bogota.

Nixon was unhurt but told reporters he was "covered with spit from head to foot". He added that one of the mob spat directly in Mrs. Nixon's face at the airport. Windows in the cars were broken, showering the party with glass. The cars were dented and covered with spit and eggs.

Larrazabal expressed deep regret. He said orders had gone out to take strong measures against demonstrators, but that he would never order guns turned on Venezuelans. Larrazabal's car also was stoned as he returned from a call on Nixon at the embassy.

Leaders of Venezuelan's three main political parties made a nationwide broadcast Tuesday night condemning the anti-Nixon riots ad urging the Venezuelan people

Lebanon Takes Firm Stand Against Mobs

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The harmless explosion of a bomb in front of the U.S. Embassy this morning began the fifth day of rioting against Lebanon's pro-Western government and its American ally.

The government of President Camille Cahmoun was reported standing defiantly against the shooting, burning mobs.

The disturbances that have racked this tiny eastern Mediterranean republic subsided again into sporadic shooting during the curfew Tuesday night. With the lifting of the curfew shooting increased and mobs returned to the streets.

The death toll in rioting in Beirut since Monday reached an estimated 20 persons. It was expected to go higher. At least 32 other persons have been reported killed since the trouble began Saturday in the north Lebanese port of Tripoli.

Rioters led by supporters of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic seek to overthrow Chamoun and his government. Mobs have wrecked two U.S. Information Agency libraries, in Beirht and Tripoli.

There Are No Magic Pills

Charles M. White, board chairman of Republic Steel, has added his voice to the most significant economic opinion of the day—the opinion that the next upsurge in manufacturing and consumption will be a dilly and is in the making right now.

It will come, he believes, when it has been earned by the people who will benefit from it. That includes everybody. There are no magic pills that will make it materialize. Knuckling down to work and preparing to work more efficiently than ever before will be the secret.

One cannot help but wonder in regard to this hardbitten formula for fighting recession by gearing up for recovery what might have happened if extra efforts to reduce the inventory of 1958 cars had been made earlier this year, or late last year. Perhaps a statistician will prepare a chart to show that the same effort, applied earlier, would have produced even better results than it is producing now.

The significance of the opinion that recession, itself, is man-made; that there is no mystery about it and that it can be overcome by human effort is its cyrstallization of confidence. Men can work at their best only when they feel they are accomplishing something.

Almost without exception, business organizations are trying to increase their operating efficiency. Many management spokesmen acknowledge a noticeable increase in the productivity of employes. Wherever this happens, it is a net addition to the efficiency of employes. Wherever this happens, it is a net addition to the efficiency that will bring the next business upturn closer.

"We've got the materials, machines, people, money and the knowledge—let's use them," Mr. White told the Industrial Information Institute at its spring meeting in Youngstown. He urged his listeners to stop complaining about how bad business is and knuckle down to make it better, a prescription so obviously it has been largely overlooked by people accustomed to think that only Washington or some far-off source of power and influence can make it better.

The truth is that business is being made better by every individual putting in his best licks to keep it from getting worse. Utimately, their combined effort will re-establish the momentum that started to decline about this time a year ago. That will lead to the upsurge that hard-headed managers like the chairman of Republic Steel are confident will be going strong in the '60s—the one that will make everything that has gone before it seem insignificant by comparison.

Stevenson's 'Mission to Moscow'

It is unrealistic to presume the Authors League of America, Inc., holds any hope of success in a move "to try to convince the Russians that U.S. writers should be compensated for the fruits of their toil and their art," but the League could have selected no better man than Adlai E. Stevenson to present its case. In his two campaigns for the presidency of the United States, Mr. Stevenson attained worldwide respect for his grasp of international affairs and his swift and sharp repartee.

Soviet leaders, from time to time, have stated that they recognize a moral obligation to compensate U.S. authors, but very few are the writers who have received royaly checks. The Soviet Union refuses to join any international copyright convention or enter into any similar agreement with the United States and is legally exempt from paying for any works used. However, Rusian authors whose works are published here are compensated at the standard rate of 10 per cent on the first 7,500 books, 12½ per cent on the next 5,000 and 15 per cent on all copies in excess of 12,500.

Last year, state-owned Russian publishing houses, which specialize in translations, turned out some 500 foreign books, of which more than half were by American authors.

Theodore H. White, chairman of an Author League committee to assist Mr. Stevenson, said the purpose of the trip would be twofold: 1. "To submit to the Russians a brief in support of the payment of rayalties to U.S. authors and dramatists for past publications and performances," and 2. "To submit a proposal for a formula as to future payments."

Mr. Stevenson is scheduled to arrive in Leningrad on July 12. Most of the negotiators for royalties will take place in Moscow and the fact that Mr. Stevenson expects to spend about two months there indicates the difficulty he anticipates. The effort hardly seems worth the candle. A simpler solution would be to divide royalties paid to Russian authors between them and U.S. authors whose works are used in the Soviet Union. This would not be compensation in full, but U.S. publishing houses would be within their legal, if not moral, rights.

Local Demonstration

"Salem's Prices Are Right" contest is more than a seasonal merchandising promotion on the part of local merchants. It is another demonstration by Salem merchants that, collectively they make up one of the best shopping districts in this section of the state.

Because Salem's prices are right, mercantile establishments here attract not only the local residents shoppers but many from surrounding cities. Retail trade statistics obtained in surveys bear this out.

The merchants have tied in their current program with products manufactured by two prominent local industries, the Eljer Division and Youngstown Kitchens, hoping to spur the use of Eljer bathroom fixtures and Youngstown Kitchens in home building and remodeling.

When industries and the retailers join hands in a venture such as this it's bound to have a favorable reaction. If other communities across the nation would make similar efforts to improve the economy, the word recession would slip back into history.

Exercise is proof that the road to thinness can be just around the bend.

Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The big deluxe auto is hard to park and it makes no sense driving an 18-footer two blocks for a pack of cigarettes three inches long. But do you think Americans are going in a big way for the demitasse auto? Alg. G. A—Americans have been all steamed up for years by the "Mister Big" and "VIP" urge. They felt they can lose face if, even in a collision, their car will be less imposing than the one it hit. They hate the thought of calling a tow car and having the crew discover they are stalled in an undersized model. They loathe the day they will be caught driving in for a $1.50 car wash in a model that isn't "big time."

FOR GENERATIONS Americans were not ashamed of limiting themselves to what they could afford, even if it had no push buttons, furbelows or luxury gadgets. But for a couple of decades Mr. and Mrs. America have felt underprivileged if they appeared in public in a machine within their price range.

They still felt that way. The small car can be parked without long training as a professional wrestler and it gets 30 to 40 miles per gallon but appeal is mainly to the young and to sports enthusiasts.

An autoist over 40 feels too stiff and muscle-bound to squirm into the pee-wee models. Even if they get in it's tough getting out. The demand for the small bus is rising but all Detroit polls show most buyers still go for the deluxe eye-filling, high, wide, long and handsome machines. At present buyers are not saying, "I'll take the itsy-bitsy unimposing car, no matter what the man next door drives." They are chirping, "I'd like to get more miles to a gallon but not more sneers to the mile."

America's luxury cars are wonders of the world, and they are accepted as giving a man prestige and importance, even if he doesn't "own his importance outright."

A MOTHER AND BABY attended the annual stockholders meeting of U. S. Steel. "Hush, my child, like a nice little darling and you can play with the proxies."

Back Home News: Perhaps the most remarkable man in America was tendered a record testimonial dinner the other night. He is ex-Congressman James Shanley, who refused to take a job unles it paid him LESS MONEY! He is now a judge of probate, but ran for the position with the distinct understanding the fees must be cut 50 per cent and more. For years Connecticut probate judges worked under a system which paid them as high as $75,000 a year and more in big cities. Shanley got them down to around a top of $18,000. The banquet brought the biggest outpouring of citizens in years.

For years Broadway figured cash customer went to the theaters to be entertained and made happier. A curious switch finds ready production for dismal plays that baffle and depress. There are four top considerations in counting on a hit show:

1. Has it a message hard to get? 2. Is it cheerless? 3. Is it grisly? 4. Will it send the audience home with the same feeling obtainable at a funeral? One of the latest hits features seduction, veneseance and a "theme" coffin.

Are many American communities driving people off super highways by boosting toll rates? Connecticut has a new wonder highway on which there are three 25-cent tolls taken in less than a 20-mile stretch. Thousands of motorists are turning onto old roads. Westchester, N.Y., is upping tolls from a dime to a quarter and will also find motorists taking a powder and making it a cheaper way.

"Why, Everything's Right Out in the Open"

But in Lima It Was Different

By JAMES MARLOW

Vice President Nixon's confidence in his ability to talk on his feet got him into one of the most embarrassing moments of his career: the stoning and spitting inflicted upon him by college students in Lima, Peru.

He knew there might be trouble if he tried to talk to them. He didn't have to go near them. But on his own he decided he would. It wasn't the first time he had faced hostile college youths.

After all, he was an expert in talking to college groups. He had won a prize for doing just that years before.

From the time he first landed in South America late in April Nixon had run into trouble with college boys. Some of them he faced and was so effective that they wound up applauding.

But in Lima it was different. The student federation of 400-year old San Marcos University had adopted a resolution — perhaps Communist-inspired— saying Nixon was unwelcome in Peru. It wasn't a personal thing.

They were expressing antagonism to the United States whose policies — particularly economic policies in dealing with Latin Americans — have been under growing criticism. This criticsm can hardly be attributed entirely to Communists.

Peruvian authorities reportedly urged Nixon not to go near the university in Lima because they feared serious trouble. But he went and later said the decision to go was entirely his own.

He explained his reason: his belief in the importance of freedom of speech. When he arrived at the university, he got the stoning and spitting. It became an international incident. President Esenhower congratulated him on his courage.

Courage it took, but there was something besides courage involved: was it wise for the vice president to expose himself not only to personal danger but through what happened to him, embarrassment for the United States?

Nixon was an expert debater when he went to Whittier College in California and won the Southern California extemporaneous speaking title in 1934.

This ability to think fast and talk on his feet, both eloquently and persuasively, has stood him in good stead throughout his spectacular political career up to this time. And he's still only 45.

It's unlikely what happened in Peru will hurt him poitically. It may not help him much politically, either.

Strange Spending

By RAYMOND MOLEY

In a most unusual step the Senate, by a resolution, has prodded the administration as well as its own Appropriation Committee to increase by 40 per cent the budget requests for irrigation and water power projects in the 17 western reclamation states. To get this in perspective, let us look at the status under which the government is now proceeding with these activities.

In the President's January budget he asked for an appropriation on reclamation of 160 million dollars. Then, in March, the President sent to Congress a 71 million dollar additional request for reclamation projects already under construction and the rehabilitation of certain existing irrigation projects. This brought the total requests for reclamation to 21 millions which should be compared with the 174 millions requested in the budget for the preceding year.

Senate Resolution 299, which passed by a substantial majority, asks for 330 millions for the fiscal year ending in 1959.

On this background it should be noted that the Bureau of Reclamation is already at work on many projects now authorized and for which appropriations have been made from year to year.

THE ULTIMATE outlay for these will be many hundreds of millions or a number of billions, counting interest on the money before they are completed. In other words, there is a great leeway for acceleration of these projects and the consequent increase in money spent in the states in question.

I can see no great objection to the acceleration of projects which are already under way in this time of business recession. The giant Upper Colorado project, over which a long fight was waged, has been passed and work has begun on some of its units. Many who disagreed with the need for and feasibility of parts of this great project recognize that they have lost the final verdict and are reconciled to seeing it proceed. This is true of other projects under way.

Senate Resolution 299, however, is not content with the acceleration of existing projects under construction. It calls for "new starts" on 20 additional projects. Sen. Anderson, author of S. 299, however, mentioned in his speech supporting it the "prompt authorizations of additional feasible reclamation projects."

To tie these new starts on already authorized projects and the authorization of more new projects is a very doubtful means of helping immediate economic conditions, even if we grant that such outlays on public works are a sound way of increasing employment and pulling us out of the recession. For all new starts must require weeks and weeks of hearings, months of engineering planning and, beyond that, more months of preparation before a cent is spent in moving dirt or pouring concrete or in making the essential machinery.

THAT PREPARATION is not essential in increasing the expenditures on such projects as the big unit in the Upper Colorado development which is the Glen Canyon dam, and some others.

In his budget the President announced no new starts for this year and he has repeatedly indicated that, by accelerating projects already under way, the limit of present spending could be attained.

One cannot help but tie this Senate move to the President's veto of the huge pork-barrel Army Engineers bill.

In that case, the President was apprised of a fact that was brought out only a few years ago by a chief of the Army Engineers. He said that Army Engineers projects already authorized could be divided into three parts — the projects needed and under way, the projects needed and which could be started with new appropriations and a good third which were projects that had been authorized but were not needed at all. So there is plenty of leeway there already.

This move of the Senate for a similar omnibus authorization in reclamation field, under cover of recesson necessities, covers too much ground and if carried out would mortgage federal revenues far into a future.

Chemist Says U.S. Government Can't Be Trusted

An amazing incident occurred on the television last Sunday evening. Dr. Linus Carl Pauling told a nationwide audience that his own government — the United States of America— can't be trusted. He is the scientist — now a professor of chemistry at the California Institute of Technology — who took the lead in presenting a petition recently to the United Nations urging an international agreement to ban nuclear tests.

David Lawrence

"How do you make agreements," he was asked, "with a nation that has broken so many agreements? Isn't this the heart of our problem in dealing with the Soviets?"

"Well," replied Dr. Pauling, 'the United States has broken many agreements, too, international agreements, and treaties. Nations keep agreements, keep their treaties so long as they continue to do them good."

Dr. Pauling was appearing on a half-hour program—"Meet the Press." There wasn't time to ask him to be specific and amplify his charges, nor was there opportunity to interrogate him as a congressional committee would. In fact, the scientist went on to vilify other scientists. He denounced Dr. Edward Teller, often referred to as "The Father of the H-Bomb," and Dr. Willard F. Libby, noted scientist who is a member of the Atomic Energy Commission. Dr. Pauling said these two scientists "make statements that are not honest, outright, forthright statements—they make dishonest, untrue, misleading statements to mislead the American public."

THEREUPON, one of the newsmen on the panel asked if the American public wouldn't be influenced by "the fact that you in the past have always rather mouthed the Communist point of view raher than what has been called the free world's point of view" and whether that wouldn't cause the American people to put more credence in the views of Dr. Libby and Dr. Teller. The answer given by Dr. Pauling was a denial that he had "mouthed the Communist point of view," whereupon one of the interrogators asked this question:

"Doctor, how do you explain this thing for example, the House Committee on Un-American Activities, which said: "His whole record indicates that Dr. Linus Pauling is primarily engrossed in placing his scientific attainments at the service of a host of organizations which have been in complete subservience to the Communist party of the United States of America.' and they list some 60 organizations and petitions that you have signed in the interests of the Communist cause?"

Dr. Pauling replied: "Not one of which was on the attorney general's list, by the way, and this House Un-American Activities Committee never accused me of anything, never called me in."

But Rep. Francis E. Walter, (D-Pa) chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, did insert in the Congressional Record on June 4, 1957, several pages enumerating all the different Communist projects with which, he said, Dr. Pauling had been in one way or another identified.

IN THAT DOCUMENT, Mr. Walter said that Dr. Pauling was a signer of a statement in behalf of the Jefferson School of Social Science, which the attorney general of the United States cited on Dec. 4, 1947, as "an adjunct of the Communist party," and that this institution was included in the consolidaed list issued by the attorney general on April 1, 1954. Also, Mr. Walter pointed out that Dr. Pauling was named as a sponsor of "The American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born"—an organizatin "cited as subversive and Communist by the attorney general in letters to the Loyalty Review Board released June 1, 1949, and Sept. 21, 1948 and included in the consolidated list released April 1, 1954.

Mr. Walter cited also a report of the House Committee on Un-American Activities dated Aug. 25, 1956, which referred to the "National Committee to Secure Justice for the Rosenbergs and Morton Sobell." Prof. Pauling as listed as one of the supporters of the petition and as one of the sponsors of the Conference f Inquiry on the Rosenberg case. Mr. Walter added:

"ON APRIL 1, 1951, the Committee on Un-American Activities released 'a report on the Communist peace offensive—a sampaign to disarm and defeat the United States," which contained a section — pages 85-87 — concerning the leading role in the Communist peace movement in the United States played by Dr. Linus Carl Pauling."

Mr. Walter noted also that Dr. Pauling was signer of the legal brief petitioning the Supreme Court for a new trial for Morton Sobell, the Communist agent who is serving a prison term for conspiracy to commit espionage.

Also in the 1955 fall term of the Supreme Court, a legal brief was submitted in behalf of the Communist party appealing from the decision of the Subversive Activities Control Board which required the Communist party to register with the attorney general as an agent of a foreign principal. Dr. Pauling was among the signers.

Strangely enough, neither the House Committee on Un-American Activities nor the Senate Internal Security subcommittee has ever had Dr. Pauling before them to explain his activities. Rumor has it that powerful political influences have managed to squelch the efforts of those members and staff of the two commitees who have wanted to ask some questions of Dr. Pauling.

Family Stories

By TRUMAN TWILL

We laugh until we nearly cry every time our family stories are retold. The same thing happens in every family that has had a long time to mellow its memories.

Things that were not funny when they happened can seem uproarious 30 years later, with the help of a few embellishments added in the retelling.

Like the time Mother broke her favorite yardstick taking a swipe at a couple pairs of legs under the kitchen table, because her aim was bad. She hit the table leg, instead. That was a screamer.

And the Memorial Day that the Old Man began to find "low places" in the yard that he thought should be filled with extra dirt and had his sons wheeling and shoveling dirt until the day was gone. Just the mention of a "low place" is enough to bring on hysterics.

And the night of the big storm when the lights went out and stayed out and someone remembered the freezer of home-made sherbet in the cellar and discovered the basment was flooded with water two feet deep but rescued the sherbet by paddling around in the dark in a floating washtub with a stick og kindling until the freezer was located, with no harm done to the sherbet.

And the time Cousin Paul came for a visit and got so homesick he couldn't go to sleep and had to be carted back home the first thing in the morning because he couldn't eat.

And the time the kids decided the white chickens would look pretty with a coat of black paint on them... that was a funny one, although everybody involved had the tar licked out of him at the time.

And the time the old man blew his stack at the dinner table and plucked a misbehaving son out of his chair, hot - handed him to a blister, made him sit down again and then went right on eating as if that sort of thing went on every day of his life.

And the Sunday afternoon the balky horse back-cramped the surrey into a ditch and turned it over, dumping the family over the nearby landscape.

And the day Mother decided to learn to drive the car and learned in a hurry by backing it on to the front steps of the house next door.

And the favorite uncle who would arrive unannounced for a visit, spend a quarter of an hour visiting and ask, "When do we eat?"

And the time the next-door neighbor, who had been practicing horseshoe pitching for two months, casually suggested a game with the Old Man, who beat him disgracefully and was never asked back.

And the awful day a cud of chewing tobacco was inadvertently swallowed during a football scrimmage and the unfortunate chewer crept home to die unobtrusively in the basement, where his still-living body was discovered late that night.

And the trip in one of the early automobiles when the roof leaked and the ignition system got wet along with the passengers. That one leads to a dozen other automobile stories — and they're getting funnier year by year.

All families have their stories. And no one who ever has told them or heard them told can doubt that the difference between laughter and tears is so small that only a psychiarist can tell the difference.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride appeared in a floor length gown of handclipped lace and tulle over taffeta. Freeze Meals To Take Heat Off Busy Days

BY KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

A freezer can be more of a household helper than you suspect, if a corner is staked out to store home-prepared dinners, readied to serve the youngsters on special occasions.

Juggling menus and dinner-time schedules to satisfy adults and children can be a harrying task when you're trying to entertain, go out for the evening or experiment with a recipe you know the little ones will not eat.

At times like those, to be able to whisk out a ready-made dinner of foods they will eat without having to cook or wash a separate set of pans saves temper and time.

IN LITTLE MORE than the time it takes to make one meal, several can be prepared and frozen without loss of food value.

The advantage to me of preparing and freezing dinners by-self is that I can select the foods the children like.

I talked with home economists to find out how to proceed.

Their advice is to limit freezer storage to about three weeks. When preparing solid meats such as roasts and chops for these home frozen meals, thoroughly cook before freezing.

Pour a little of the natural juice over the meat and wrap individual servings in freezer foil.

The simplest way that I've found to package a meal and to simplify reheating is to wrap servings of meat, vegeatable and fruit in foil and pack in a quart-size square waxed-board container. Mark the contents on the container's plastic lid. When it is time to heat, remove foil packages and put them in the oven.

Chicken is a favorite with our youngsters and is cooked before packaging and freezing. Ground meat and fish should be frozen raw, say my advisers.

Put a small pat of butter on top of each serving before packaging to keep it moist and to add flavor during the cooking.

Vegetables should be cooked just slightly before freezing. Otherwise they may become mushy and overdone in the reheating. That is why fresh vegetables are recommended for freezing.

You can, however, take a package of commercially frozen vegetables and break off a chunk and wrap it up. Make sure, though, that it does not thaw during the transfer.

FOR DESSERT, stew or bake fruit as you would for immediate eating. Cool and wrap. Baked potatoes can be scooped out, the potato mashed with butter and milk and the shells refilled before packaging.

A typical menu that will keep is: broiled or roasted, sliced chicken in natrual juices, half a baked potato, frozen with an extra pat of butter, carrot cubes, and baked apple.

Another suggested menu consists of a small piece of raw filet of cod, haibut or haddock, sweet potato cubes, string beans and baked pear.

Dem, GOP to Meet to Get Fall Political Show on Road

Central Committee Members to Pick Officers

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Central committee members who run the Republican and Democratic parties in Ohio meet this week and next to pick offcers and get the fall political show on the road.

The Republican State Committee convenes today in the Neil House, Columbus; the Democratic group in the Deshler-Hilton next monday.

County Committees, in addition to the state bodies, are required by law to hold organization meetings within 15 days after the primaries when their members were elected for two-year terms.

Officers of both state committees are expected to be reelected at the sessions. Some changes in county leaders are expected.

George Bender of Cleveland, former congressman and U. S. Senator, has been expected to return to his old post of co-chairman of the Cuyahoga County GOP Central Committee with A. L. DeMaioribus. But in Cleveland DeMaioribus has said he is not offering to share the local GOP leadership with anyone.

In Line For New Terms

Chairman Ray C. Bliss of Akron and other officers of Republican state and executive committees are in line for new terms. Bliss has been Republican state chairman since 1949.

Other GOP state officers are Mrs. Florence G. Morris of Toledo, vice chairman; Mrs. Lila Black of Avon Lake, secretary, and B. Lewis Jones of Gallipolis, treasurer.

Republicans customarily keep the same membership on both their central and executive committees. Democrats in the past have resolved their central committee into an executive committee into an executive committee and added outstanding party workers to form a larger group. The present Democratic committee has more than 100 members.

William L. Coleman, Democratic Executive Committee chairman sai dthe new executive committee probably be about the same sze as the central committee. He expcs an advsory comm o baondlc pects an advisory committee to be formed of county chairmen and other party leaders to help the November election drive.

Headed by Meredith

The Democratic Central Committee is headed by Harry R. Meredith of Lima. Other central committee officers are Miss Mary E. McGowan of Akron, vice chairman; Miss Mary C. Gallagher of Ironton, secretary, and Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, treasurer. Gosney became treasurer about a year ago following the death of Earl D. Applegate, Steubenville.

Democratic Executive Committee officers, in addition to Coleman, are John Kelly of Toledo, vice chairman; Miss Gallagher, secretary, and George L. Flanagan Jr. of Dayton, treasurer.

A major change in Democratic organization envisions a state finance committee to pool money raising efforts in a central body along lines followed successfully for years by Ohio Republicans.

Coleman expressed the hope that the prospective change woud lift the party's $30,000 debt and raise enough money to help finance the campaigns of candidates for state, district and local offices.

Plans call for the new executive committee chairman to head the finance committee and name various divisions such as professional, volunteers, business and employes for fund solicitations throughout the state.

Under the pool arrangement, money raised by the finance committee is apportioned to national and county committees, major candidates and other party activities, including state headquarters.

Members of the central committees, although often overlooked by many voters, are elected in each of Ohio's 23 congressional districts. Each district names a man and a woman member for a total of 46 statewide.

New Republican Central Committee members, all named without opposition, are:

First District, Mrs. Morton B. Gusweiler of Cincinnati to succeed Mrs. Gladys B. Coffn of Cincinnati; Second, Mrs. Norma M. Schoenling of Cincinnati to succeed Mrs. Mary R. Sarvis of Cincinnati; Mrs. Donna L. Wagner of Washington Court House to succeed Mrs. Mary Loomis of Wapakoneta; Sixth, William H. Harsha Jr. of Portsmouth to succeed Josef E. Clark of Chillicothe, and Twenty-first, William J. Rogers of Cleveland to succeed William O. Walker of Cleveland.

Republicans also will name a man to fill a vacancy in the third District. Martin A. Coyle of Hamilton, serving temporarily, is expected to be selected.

One Vacancy to Be Filled

Democrats elected 15 new central committee members, most without opposition, and have one vacancy to fill.

Newy eected members are: First District, Raymond F. Achten of Norwood to succeed Edward T. Dixon of Cincinnati; Fourth, Ruth M. Lynch of Piqua to succeed Mrs. Anna Jo Romer of Coldwater; Fifth, Max E. Dunipace of Portage to succeed Paul E. Miller of North Baltimore; Seventh, Coleman to succeed James H. Smith of Springfield.

Eighth, Francis M. Marley of Fostoria to succeed James F. Lauer of Prospect; Tenth, R. Kenneth Kerr of Athens to succeed John E. Halliday of Gallipolis; 13th, Mrs. Hariette J. Vanca of Elyria to succeed Mrs. Lena L. Conley of Lorain; 15th, Fred F. Fox of Caldwell to succeed Charles D. Fogle Jr. of Marietta and Mrs. Mable E. Barton of Zanesville to succeed Mrs. Edna Garrett of Zanesville; Paul D. Barthelmeh of Canton to succeed William C. Baker of Massillon.

Seventeenth, James J. Mayer of Mansfield to succeed Paul V. McDonough of Mount Vernon; 20th. John T. Bilinski of Cleveland to succeed Edward L. Pucel of Cleveland; 21st, Helen Novak of Garfield Heights to succeed Mrs. Mary Sctak Franek of Cleveland; 22nd, Michael J. Crosser of Cleveland Heights to succeed Anthony J. Russo of Cleveland; 2rd, Stephen M. Young of Shaker Heights to succeed Francis D. Sullivan of Brecksville.

The Democratic vacancy is in the Third District where Mrs. Mary B. Billingslea of Hamilton formerly served.

Causes of Anti-U.S. Outbreaks Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration's dispatch of 1,000 fighting men to the Caribbean appeared destined today to figure largely in a Senate investigation of Latin American mob action against Vice President Nixon

The inquiry, by a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee headed by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), is expected to highlight a sharp division of opinion between Republicans and Democrats over the wisdom of the troop move.

Morse said he wants the State Department to tell why it didn't take advance precautions to prevent the kind of mob violence to which Nixon and his wife were subjected in Caracas, Venezuela.

"I want the vice president to know if he cares to volunteer any information he will be welcome," Morse said.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn), who joined several other Democrats in condemning the order sending paratroopers and Marines to U.S. bases in the Venezuela area, calling for a searching investigation of U.S relations with Latin America.

the construction of a six-room annex to the Lincoln School building.

The board voted to pay the expenses for two cafeteria workers to attend a "school lunch conference workshop" at Kent State University June 24-26.

The board instructed Supt. Loren Early to get bids on a radial saw for the industrial arts class and present them at the next meeting.

The board acknowledged a request of Ben Hipsley, clerk of the Southern Local School District, asking the Lisbon board to accept high school students from the Wayne Local School district for an indefinite period. Lisbon has been accepting Wayne High School students for a number of years.

A special meeting will be called so that dates may be set for a pre-school clinic for Lisbon schools sometime after the close of school. The board president, Dr. Wade Bacon, will ask local physicians to help with the inoculations. The aid of Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner, will also be requested.

Principal George Nace reported on his attendance of the meeting of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools held recently in Chicago.

Four Parent - Teacher Association members attended Tuesday night's metting. Mrs. Virginia Arnold, Mrs. Mary Bozo, Mrs. Mabel Peterson and John Novak asked board members their reasons for teaching the seventh graders next year at St. George's Parish Hall, the Methodist Church and North Beaver Street Church of Christ. Board members explained why they took the action.

B. J. Clary, a representative of the Industrial Appraisal Company, Pittsburgh, spoke to the board on the cost of appraisal of the three Lisbon school buildings and contents and gave the board an estimate of $1,840, plus 10 per cent each year thereafter. The board accepted the bid and will advise the company when it can make the survey.

Insurance policies for robbery, and burglary were presented but no action was taken until after the value of the equipment is designated.

The next board meeting was set for June 10 at 7:30 p.m.

giving way to the military. In Paris police cordons kept the demonstrators from storming the Assembly building and arrested about 150 persons suspected of membership in extreme rightist political groups.

The demonstrations and the Algiers coup were sparked by fear that Pflimlin's moderate government might yield to increasing international pressure to end the 3½-year-old Algerian rebellion by political concessions which would loosen French control in Algeria. Both mobs shouted anti-American slogans, the result of persistent reports that the U.S. government is urging negotiations with the Algerian nationalists.

to conduct themselves with serenity and dignity.

Civic and educational leaders also joined in a radio program similarly condemning violence and appealing for order and decorum. Interior Minister Numa Quevedo in a statement deplored the disorders and said they "do not affect the traditional cordial relations between the United States and Venezuela."

Quevedo said the junta had ordered those responsible for the riots to be found and punished.

Nixon said he was canceling all appointments that would take him into the tense capital so that further violence might be averted. The party leaves for Washington Thursday, winding up the eight-nation South American tour.

Some 250 troops in battle dress and police were posted in a three-block radius around the hilltop embassy.

The vice president said the government apparently had underestimated the character and number of rioters. He expressed doubt many of them were Communists but added, "If a situation like that we saw today is allowed to go unchecked, there will come to the hemisphere a dicatorship worse than that of Perez Jimenez."

Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez is the dictator Venezuelans ousted in a January revolt. He is living in exile in Miami Beach.

River-Lake Road

Mahoning County a little to the west of North Lima.

Stockdale pointed out that one four-lane road could serve both the Lake-River freeway and Route 30 as far north as the point near Lisbon if the west alternate route is adopted. Therefore, it apparently will have preference over the east alternate, in which the freeway and Route 30 would follow a common pavement only as far as Cannons Mills, he said.

Job May Start in 1960

Plans for the relocation of Route 30 between East Liverpool and the Stark county line were announced Feb. 12 by Mr. Quicksall. At the time, he said the state expects to let first construction contracs in 1960 or 1961 for what eventually will be a $35 million project.

Columbana county also was represented by Commissioners Richard Brian, Walter A. Hunston and Galen H. Greenisen, State Rep. Clarence Wetzel, County Engineer Charles O. Snyder, Castle Smith, executive secretary of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, and E. R. Chandler, secretary of the East Liverpool chamber.

Mr. Chandler is a director of the association, and Mr. Smith is secretary.

State Offer On Surplus Food Studied

If Columbiana County wishes to secure surplus food commodities for distribution to county needy, it must provide suitable storage and repacking facilities and handle the distribution of the food, a county group was told at a meeting Tuesday at the Courthouse in Lisbon.

Victor J. Warken, state supervisor of commodity distribution for the state welfare department, said the county would be charged for all commodities at the current wholesale price.

Commodities available at the present time are cheese, rice and milk solids. Butter may be available by June and flour in September.

All county cities had representatives at Tuesday's meeting except Salem. The county commissioners requested that each representative check with his city officials to ascertain if they thought the expense of operating the surplus commodity distribution and processing was worthwhile, considering the small number of commodities available. They are requested to inform the commissioners of the results.

Present at the meeting were commissioners Galen Greenisen, Richard Brian and Walter A. Hunston; Dan Maggainette and Margaret Hickey of East Liverpool; Mayor William Shoub and Lois Leggett of Wellsville; Robert H. Hunston of East Palestine; Edith Hilditch, representing Aid for the Aged; Mrs. Rigby Mast, representing the Soldiers Relief; and Robert Bycroft and Goldie Kidder, representing the County Welfare Department.

Foreign Aid Foes Defeated in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defeat of major fund-cutting amendments brought predictions the House would pass intact today a $3,603,000,000 program of overseas aid for next year.

Acting Chairman Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa) of the Foreign Affairs Committee reacted cautiously to the string of victories Tuesday against effort to cut the bill. He was wary, because, he said, results were easy so far.

But Rep. E. Ross Adair (R-Ind) a leader in the money-slashing attempts, said in a separate interview: "It seems to me the action of the House Tuesday pretty well determined the size of the bill."

Opponents attacked the aid effort as wasteful. They said renewed outbreaks of violence directed at Vice President Nixon in South America and U. S. libraries elsewhere abroad showed that American dollars failed to buy friends overseas. News of sending U.S. troops to the Caribbean had not yet come in.

House passage would send to the Senate the authorization bill which in its present form provides for $2,959,000,000 in aid to 63 countries for the year starting July 1. Another 644 million is authorized in existing law.

Sheriff VanFossan testified that Bishop had offered much verbal information following his arrest and that he had readily complied with a suggestion that he write a statement.

Second Home Seen for Many

Trend Growing More Popular In Nation

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A second home may become as common as a second car within the next decade.

That's the prediction of many experts in the building field. Already, they point out, weary apartment dwellers are escaping to "the outside" and become home owners, even if it's just for that long weekend respite.

The summtr or vacation home market is growing also among families with a monthly mortgage to meet on their everyday homes. And, say the experts, it will continue to grow as others feel the need of a retreat as suburbs build up.

This need, explains architect - writer Bob Englebrecht, is almost as if the town house - country home living of a past century had come full cycle, with this big difference: a summer home of the next decade won't be a whim of the very rich.

"Those I know going in for summer homes," he says, "are those with incomes under $10,000.

"Most of them feel that the investment is not a calculated risk but a normal growth. Each year as Dad brings home a little more money, the family goes up the scale of living. They also know they can sell these homes for almost 100 per cent profit."

The idea of having a second home to lounge in is exciting to most, especially the young in heart. But even more exciting is that these are no longer one - room cracker boxes, with outdoor facilities.

Key to success of a vacation home is the off-key approach people can take to it. Some get so off-key, Englebrecht adds, that the owners become confused and ask, "How informal can you get?"

Architects find the second-home area challenging because they have a freer hand. Various sallies into economical vacation home design show what can be done with a budget in mind. Among these are a $7,000 T-shaped, prefabricated structure by Norman Cherner and a $1,000 geodesic dome (half a bubble) home by R. Buckminster Fuller.

Another example of an easy-to-erect and inexpensive home is the A-frame beach cabin. It looks like an elongated tepee and sports two bedrooms on the top deck with a porch, living room, built-in kitchen and bathroom on the first deck.

Extensive use of beams and panels, both for support and decoration; rampant colors, and rugged bright materials add to their individuality.

Probably the biggest selling feature of a second home is its freedom from concise and dogmatic life — the Main Street traditions of what a home should be.

"If people are living in a house they like, they might not go away," is Englebrecht's explanation for the growing popularity of colorful second homes. "It seems they leave things that tend to plague them."

The extremely foresighted saw the trend coming when families rushed to camp sites after World War II. But Englebrecht points out an interesting sidelight to the theory that people want to rough it.

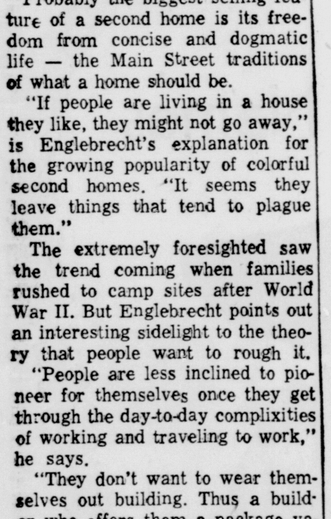
"People are less inclined to pioneer for themselves once they get through the day-to-day complixities of working and traveling to work," he says.

"They don't want to wear themselves out building. Thus a builder who offers them a package vacation home for a set monthly payment probably will make a sale."

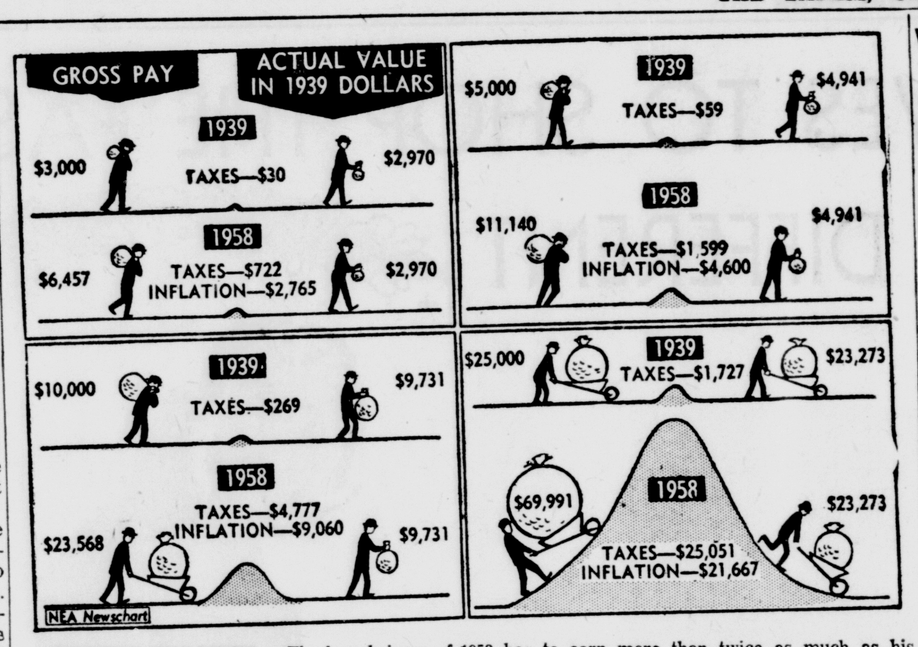
Still, building a vacation cabin is one of the strongest vestiges left of the do-it-yourself trend, according to a spokesman for the Douglas Fir Plywood Association.

"People," he says, "feel that expert workmanship isn't as important out in the woods or on the beach, and these are the normal sites for second homes.

"Thus, there's a fertile field for the home handyman who wants to put up the shell of a basic structure and improve it in gradual stages."



MURDERED — East Haven, Conn., police say that 13-year-old Dana Bragdon has admitted killing six-year-old Cathy Palumbo, above. The boy allegedly assaulted the girl criminally and then beat her to death with a rock in woods near her home.



BETWEEN TWO FIRES — The breadwinner of 1958 has to earn more than twice as much as his 1939 counterpart in order to bring home the same amount of purchasing power. Newschart above, based on National Industrial Conference Board data, illustrates the effect of inflation and higher income taxes on today's earnings. For both 1939 and 1958 figures, income and social security taxes are computed for a married couple with two children. Other taxes are not included.

Walter Cassel

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of America's top baritones is as handy with a needle as he is an aria.

He is Walter Cassel, the 6-foot 200 - pound Metropolitan Opera star.

"I sewed all the slip covers and the drapes in this room," he said, leaning back comfortably in the East Side apartment where he lives with his wife, Gail Manners, the soprano.

"I learned sewing as a boy. My mother was a fine milliner. My father was an interior decorator. I always wanted a sewing machine — you can do better work with one. But now that I finally have one, I find I'm too busy to use it."

The big baritone, who designs many of his operatic costumes, also is an expert photographer and woodworker. He constructed most of the built-ins in his apartment. He is also a talented cook.

Cassel, who comes from Council Bluffs, Iowa, believes any skill a man can develop is helpful. Before winning his laurels in opera, he studied dentistry and worked as flour miller, sign painter, carpenter and radio announcer to pay for his singing lessons.

The husky singer, who is built like a fullback, is a hard worker and has 25 operatic and 25 musical comedy roles in his repertoire.

Most opera stars rarely will sing more than three performances in a week. Cassel made musical headlines early this year when, during a weekend emergency, he sang three different and exacting roles within 24 hours at the Metropolitan. It was a test of stamina and virtuosity unique in the Met's history.

"The next morning he got up early and fixed my breakfast, because I had to sing in church," said his wife, smiling.

She and her husband, called by one critic "the Lunt and Fontanne of the musical theater," like to perform together whenever possible. They say a joint musical career has been no handicap.

"If you have difficult roles to rehearse, it's nice to have a partner," said Miss Manners, who comes from Akron, Ohio, and is small, pretty, and brown-eyed.

Mild-mannered and soft-spoken, Cassel rarely gives vent to the displays of temperament traditionally associated with opera stars.

"You have to have enough ego to make yourself secure as a human being or an artist," he said, "but I don't think that to be a great artist anyone has to behave like a jackass."

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — Two fire engines responded to an alarm on Midget Avenue. Uncertain of the exact location, they took different directions. At the intersection of Midget Avenue and Nausauket Road they met — with a loud crash. No one was injured, both vehicles were damaged. The fire: A minor grass blaze.

Veterans Guide

(By Veterans Administration)

Q — I recently noticed press reports saying down payments are no longer required for GI loans. Does this mean the private lender cannot ask the veteran to make a down payment?

A — No. The Government regulation requiring a minimum two - percent down payment has been rescinded, but the lender is free to require whatever down payment he believes is indicated.

Q — I'm a Korea veteran drawing compensation for a service-connected disability. Is there a limit on what I can earn and still get my compensation payments?

A — There is no limit. No matter how much you earn, your service connected compensation will not be reduced. The ceiling on income applies only to pensions, paid to veterans for total and permanen nonservice - connected disabilities.

Q — We've recently had a happy event at hour house and I want to name my new son a beneficiary of my GI insurance. How do I go about it?

A — Get a "Change of Beneficiary" form at any VA office. Fill it out, putting down your son's name as beneficiary, and send it to the VA District Office where you pay your premiums. Or, you may simply write the District Office a letter, naming your son as beneficiary.

Will Produce 50% of Electricity Within Next Decade

Atomic Power Is to Have Major Role In Ohio Valley

By COL. R. E. SMYSER JR.
Division Engineer,
U.S. Army

(First of Series).

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ohio Valley electric utility men who for several years have pioneered in atomic research, predict that within a decade at least 50 per cent of the valley's vast electric output will be of atom origin.

Nor do they shut their eyes to the great unmeasured possibility that eventually hydrogen fusion rather than atomic fission may become the power source of the future.

Twenty-two top utility and industrial firms of the east and midwest currently are cooperating in the construction of a 150,000 kilowatt atomic power plant at Laguna Beach, near Monroe, Mich.

One of the utilities already has selected a river-bank site up river from Cincinnati for its atomc power installation, which at the moment is planned as a 150,000 kw plant. Details of the plans have not been disclosed. A similar plant operated by Westinghouse Corp. at Shippingport, Pa., is rated at 60,000 kw.

Several years ago, 15 private utilities combined their resources to construct the two largest steam-electric power plants ever built—located on the Ohio River near Madison, Ind., and Gallipolis, Ohio —to provide energy required by the huge Atomic Eenergy Commission plant at Waverly, Ohio, north of Portsmouth. These tw oplants require a total of eight million tons of river-borne coal a year to produce upward of 2,200,000 kilowatts of power.

Atomic power may in some now-distant day affect the utility market for the Ohio Valley's fathomless supply of coal, which has been a major factor in this area's vast industrial development because of its low-cost barge transportation. But that day plainly will not come so long as present generating costs, through use of coal, remain at or near the present average of 1.9 mills per kilowatt hour.

Atomic power, at the moment, costs in excess of eight mills per kwh. It would appear, then, that for years to come, atomic energy's prime use will be as a supplement to coal and that present demand will continue.

If and when atomic power does assume any other role, utility men are confident that new and as yet undreamed uses of coal will come as a result of research.

The full potential of coal as a source of chemicals, dyes, medicines, and pharmaceuticals probably never will be realized. But it is one of our great 'stockpiles" of the future in the field of better living. Even in an era when atomic power may have put coal barges to other use, the coal mines themselves may, in the opinions of many, become huge central heating plants, from which heat will be distributed underground to wide segments of the countryside.

Even though years in the future, the advent of commercially applicable hydrogen-fusion is expected, on the one hand, to tap heavily into the nation's water supplies and, by a strange paradox, also to open the doors to new sources. Water is the basis of the hydrogen-fusion process.

New sources will be opened because scientists currently expect the hydrogen-fusion process to provide the first vast scale means of making sea water fresh and potable. A method of ridding ocean water of its salinity for widespread use has been one of the oldest of man's quests.

Wholesale conversion of sea water into virtually a distilled product would have tremendous impact not only upon day-to-day living but upon presently required public works.

Water in reservoirs that presently provide a combination of flood control and irrigation storage could, under such a new order of things, be diverted to industries requiring vast quantities for cooling purposes.

What a stimulus to industrial expansion that additional water alone would be.

Tomorrow: Ohio Valley is "Atom Valley."

PLAYWRIGHT

NEW YORK (AP)— Writing for the stage is a highly popular American Playwrights Guild reports.

The organization, formed a year ago to help new playwrights in preparation of scripts for Broadway and television, has made a survey of its correspondence, found hopeful authors in 37 states.

The guild found the greatest activity in New York State, followed by Illinois and then Pennsylvania. More than 800 scrips have been examined, with a 55 per cent majority of authors preferring to write for the theater rather than television.

ADVICE FOR CLERGYMEN

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Visiting sick folks is a special art, says the Rev. Herbert E. Richards, of the First Methodist Church here. Writing in his denominations monthly magazine, together, he offers this advice:

"Take your best smile . . . into a sickroom. Plan what to say in advance. Bring uplifting news, but keep it brief. Never comment on a patient's appearance. . . Don't sit on the bed . . . Don't smoke. Leave medical talk to the doctor If you must be funny, keep jokes mild. Excessive humor is tiring."

CHEW LIKE A MAN!

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Forsyth County Judge Hoyle Sink, irritated as gum-chewing witnesses and defendants in criminal cases testified, suddenly stopped the proceedings and told one approaching witness: "You had better get rid of that chewing gum before you come up here. If you're going to chew anything — chew tobacco like a man."

BRITISH TIES

NEW YORK (AP) — There are double ties currently between two British theater families, the Oliviers and the Marshes.

Sir Laurence Olivier is starring in "The Entertainer," with Brenda de Benzi enacting his wife. In London, Vivien Leigh, his real wife is starring in "Duel of the Angels." The stage manager is Rupert Marsh, Brenda's husband.

TOLEDO EDITOR DIES

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Fred L. Mollenkopf, 70, city editor of the Toledo Blade from 1926 to 1949, died Tuesday at St. Vincent's Hospital following a series of strokes. Before joining the Blade he was managing editor of the old Toledo News-Bee. Since 1949 Mollenkopf had written a column, "Among the Folks," for the Blade.

741-Year Search For King John's Jewels Resumes In England

LONDON — (NEA) — Sleuths equipped with the latest in electrical engineering devices are hot on the track of one of the richest buried treasure hoards in the whole of England.

The treasure, known as King John's Jewels, consists of loot from half the churches and castles of 13th Centruy England.

It was lost 741 years ago when the baggage train bearing the swag to London was trapped by a sudden change of tide in the part of East Anglia known as the Wash. Men, horses and wagons were buried in the treacherous quicksand, along with Crown jewels and other treasure conservatively valued at three million dollars.

The latest development in the long search for the buried treasure is that the causeway along which the caravan was traveling when overtaken by the sea on Oct. 16, 1216, has now been identified—by means of electricity.

THIS IS THE culmination of two years of work by Dr. George F. Tagg, a London electrical engineer, and three associates forming the Wash Research Committee.

In his treasure quest, Dr. Tagg has employed modern geophysical methods and equipment used in prospecting for water, mineral bodies and concealed mine workings.

The method consists of measuring electrical resistance of the soil down to depths as low as 30 feet from the surface. By means of this method, Dr. Tagg has been able to trace a bony ridge, or causeway, skirting the sea in a dog-leg course between the three East Anglican villages of Tydd St. Mary, Walpole St. Peter and Walpole St. Andrews.

THE NEXT STEP will be to sink boreholes along the causeway in order to confirm its existence beyond doubt and to explore the subsoil in which the treasure is thought to be buried.

Althoggh the causeway once ran along te sea, the tide has since receded eight miles leaving a strip of red silt on which cereals and flower bulbs are now grown. One reason why Dr. Tagg's work has been dragged out for two years is that he has had to prospect between crops, when the Norfolk and Lincolnshire farmers allow access to their fields.

Every British schoolboy knows the story how King John "lost his clothes in the Wash"—and not only his clothes, but his own personal jewels and such priceless treasures as King Alfred's crown.

The story goes back over 700 years to the period after the signing of the Magna Carta when King John tried to welch on his agreement with the barons and consequently found himself at war with the most powerful among them. Thereafter, King John had to keep constantly on the move, lugging his loot around with him.

IT WAS WHILE his baggage train of 200 pack horses and 20 wagons laden with the spoils of monasteries and castles King John had pillaged were taking a short cut across the East Anglian marshes that they were overtaken by the tide.

Between 800 and 1,000 soldiers are said to have perished in the quicksands.

There have been many attempts to recover King John's treasure, but the most serious was in 1933 when Fen Research Ltd. was formed with the backing of American financier James Herbert Boone and a few titled names to grace its letterhead.

Fen Research Ltd. paid East Anglian farmers as much as one dollar an acre for the right to explore fields that lay along King John's route, but its directors were soon quarreling over money and methods and the venture wound up with a $75,000 deficit.

OPPOSED — Political and religious forces opposing President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon, above, have run wild in Beirut and Tripoli. Rioters fought with guns, stones and clubs against government troops.

Pennsylvania Railroad Head Says Profits Unlikely in '58

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The current recession is continuing "at an alarming accelerated rate" and makes a profit this year extremely doubtful, the president of the nation's largest railroad said today.

President James M. Symes of the Pennsylvania Railroad told the annual stockholders meeting:

"Business continues at a very low ebb, presently running about 22 per cent behind a year ago, and there is no real indication of any substantial pickup in the immediate future—certainly not before next fall."

More than 2,500 men and women attended the meeting.

Symes said he was painting a gloomy picture and blamed "present difficulties" of the railroad on "inflation, over regulation, the recession, and subsidy of competition."

Symes said his comments at last year's annual meeting were overly optimistic. He said he was "completely wrong" in assuming that profits in 1957 would be as much, if not more, than in 1956.

Concernimg 1958, Symes reported freight business for the first three months was off 22 per cent and passenger business off 23 per cent. He said that on top of this the company experienced in February and in March, the most severe snowstorms in its history. The storms resulted in a 10-million-dollar revenue loss.

"Because of the recession, the snowstorms and an increased wage bill, we operated in the red to the extent of nearly 15 million dollars during the first quarter of this year as compared with a profit of about five million dollars during the same period last year," Symes said.

Unknown Soldiers of 3 Wars To Be Interred In Arlington

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — One soldier killed in World War II who has never been identified, and one killed in the Korean fighting, are destined to remain unidentified forever.

In an historic ceremony this Memorial Day, May 30, their remains will be interred beside the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier of World War I in Arlington National Cemetery.

Thus, the inscription on the original tomb, "Here Rests in Honored Glory an American Soldier Known But to God," will then apply to three American heroes. The trio will become the symbol of all Americans who have died in the service of their country.

The newcomers will remain unidentified forever because all records and clues to their identity, no matter how remote, will be destroyed as part of the elaborate process of their selection. There are still 853 Korean dead and 8,744 World War II dead whose remains are unidentified.

ACTUALLY, these figures have been going up slowly as bodies of U.S. airmen shot down in Europe and over Pacific islands are discovered. The figure for the Korean unknowns remains fairly constant because many U.S. soldiers were killed in North Korean territory now in the hands of the Communists.

After the two new unknowns have been selected and returned to the States on May 28th, they will be escorted to the Rotunda of the Capitol to lie in state for 48 hours. During his time the public will be permitted to file by and pay whatever honors individuals or groups see fit to pay.

On Memorial Day, there will be a state funeral as the unknowns are escorted down Pennsylvania Ave. and on to Arlington for final interment. It is expected that President Eisenhower will be in the procession from the Capitol and participate in the ceremonies.

PLANS ARE BEING made for a crowd of 30,000 persons to be at Arlington for the event. Work was started on the modification of the Plaza at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier last January.

Over 200 tons of granite are going into construction of the new crypts which will be imbedded on either side and front of the present tomb, flush with the surface of the plaza.

A World War II unknown from the European phase of the war will be selected from among the 31 U. S. cemeteries in Europe and North Africa in a series of simple, ceremonial lotteries. Medal of Honor winners will select numbers on cards from a bowl. Final selection will be at the Epinal American Cemetery in France.

A World War II unknown from the Pacific will be selected in a similar manner from U.S. cemeteries in that area, climaxed by the final selection at Hickam Air Force Base, Honolulu, Hawaii.

AT ABOUT THE SAME time the Korean unknown will be selected by a Medal of Honor winner at a small ceremony at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific.

The three unknowns will be delivered by plane and ship to the U.S.S Canberra, the Navy's new guided missile cruiser. It will be located 25 miles out from the entrance to the Chesapeake Bay.

In another ceremony the two World War II unknowns will have their combat theater identification removed. Then Medal of Honor winner, Navy hospital corpsman William R. Charrette of Ludington, Mich., who served in Korea, will lay a wreath on one of the caskets.

The unknown not receiving the wreath will get a formal burial at sea. It will not be known whether this is the Pacific or Atlantic unknown.

The unknown designated by Charette's wreath and the Korean unknown will then be transferred to the destroyer USS Blandy. It will sail up the Potomac and deliver both unknowns to the Naval Gun Factory dock here on Wednesday, May 28.

To make sure that maximum anonymity for the unknowns is achieved a review of each record will be made after selection. This will be done to determine that the unknowns cannot even be identified as to name, rank or branch of service. As soon as the final selection is made all records, files and references to their numbers will be destroyed and obliterated from other records.

BUSY ACTOR

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Ray Walston says time, not fortune, is the reason why he is suddenly one of the busiest performers shuttling between Broadway and Hollywood.

"It's not that I got hot all at once," he explains the rush of dates. "It is just that the ground work for a lot of things was laid far ahead and everything suddenly emerged at about the same time."

Directly after playing in the film, "Kiss Them for Me," he went into the movie version of "South Pacific," and when that was done, hurried here for stellar assignment in the stage comedy, "Who Was that Lady I Saw you With?"

Now he has taken a leave to make the film of "Damn Yankee," after which he will return to Broadway.

MORMONS INCREASING

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Latter-day Saints (Mormon) Church reports its membership increased to 1,488,314 during 1957. Elder Joseph Anderson, clerk of the 128th general church conference, says there were 30,129 converts to the Mormon faith by baptism during the year.

Volunteer Workers Push YWCA Project

Construction of the new building at the YWCA headquarters is proceeding steadily through the labor of volunteer workers.

There are usually 15 to 20 volunteers on hand Saturdays, and there are always a few men who can assist on each of the weekdays. Tom Griggs, who superintends the job, and Herbert Chuck and Glen Lacey, who are on the job every day, are the only men on the payroll.

Representatives from all other trades donate their time. John Kelly of Lisbon, business agent for the Building Trades Council and for Plumbers and Steamfitters engineered this "free labor" for the building program.

The public is invited to inspect the building this week while it is being left open. In another week or 10 days, the bliuding will have to be kept closed for work on the interior.

The new building will house on the main floor an auditorium with a stage, large lounge, kitchen, office rooms and rest rooms.

In the basement, there will be an activity room for the Y-teens, a lounge and coke bar and two classrooms. This new building, completely separated from the YW headquarters, is being financed with money willed for that purpose by the late Mrs. Edith Ritz.

The Lease house, purchased with money from subscribers and the proceeds from the building fund campaign, will continue to be used for adult programs. Classes in sewing, knitting and bridge are now in session in the house, where various organizations also hold meetings.

COFFEE BREAK — As one of their projects under the direction of Mrs. Fred Cope, advisor, the Y-teens provide coffee and doughnuts every Saturday morning for men constructing the new building at the YWCA headquarters.

Possible Compromise Seen on Trade Bill

WASHINGTN (AP) — A possible compromise formula for limiting imports offered hope today for committee agreement on a new reciprocal trade bill.

Details remained to be worked out, but the compromise reportedly seeks to provide relief to U.S. industries threatened by imports without resort to specific tariff and quota restrictions.

Reflecting a new atmosphere of optimism, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark) of the House Ways and Means Committee reported he is now confident a trade extension bill would be approved by the committee Thursday or Friday.

The bill was certain to provide considerably less than Presidnt Eisenhower requested. But leaders regarded it as the best they could hope to get through the House in the face of hostile bipartisan opposition.

Baltimore Defeated 3-0 By New York

By The Associated Press

Time was when those New York Yankees kept padding their American League lead with power at the plate. Now they're doing it with pitching.

The Yankee staff leads the majors with five shutouts and Don (perfect game) Larsen has two of them, pushing his scoreless inning string to 29 Tuesday night with a four-hitter that beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-0.

That put New York three games ahead of second place Washington, beaten 9-6 by Boston. Detroit moved within .004 percentage of the third place Orioles with an 11-1 job on Cleveland, and the Chicago White Sox defeated Kansas City 9-2.

Larsen had been idled since April 21 by shoulder trouble and rain.

The big right-hander, whose perfect game in the 1956 World Series, ended a shutout duel with Connie Johnson (1-3) with his second home run of the season, 10th in the majors, in the fifth inning. Larsen, 2-for-2 at bat, walked ahead of Hank Bauer's two-run double in the seventh.

It was Larsen's sixth straight over the Orioles. but it wasn't a breeze. He walked four, had to work out of a bases-loaded jam in the first and a two-on, none out fix in the fifth.

Jackie Jensen smacked a grand-slam homer and drove in five runs for Boston as the Red Sox won their second in eight games with the Senators this season. Pete Ramos, who had beaten the Sox twice, lost his second. Rookie Bob (Riverboat) Smith won his second, but needed relief in the ninth after a two-run homer by Niel Chrisley.

Stan Musial Clears 3,000 Hit Barrier

CHICAGO (AP)—Stan Musial, having cleared the 3,000 hit barrier, now wants to become the biggest hit maker in National League history.

Musial collected his 3,000th hit in a pinch hitting role against the Chicago Cubs Tuesday which paved the way to a 5-3 St. Louis victory.

Musial had only one regret in becoming the eighth major leaguer to hit safely 3,000 times. "I wish I had made it in St. Louis," he said, "but I'm glad it's over with."

Cardinal Manager Fred Hutchinson had benched his star to give him the opportunity to get the big hit in St. Louis where the Cardinals meet San Francisco tonight.

But with the team trailing 3-1 in the sixth inning, a man on second and only one out, Hutchinson called on the 37-year-old veteran. Musial worked the count to 2-2 and then drove a Moe Drabowsky offering into left field for a double.

Photographers rushed on the field, the ball was brought to Musial and Hutchinson walked out to congratulate Stan.

Hutchinson then sent in a pinch runner and photographers, reporters, newsreel cameramen and well wishers mobbed Musial in the dugout runway.

Victory Over Redlegs Pirates Register 6-3

By The Associated Press

You might say the Cincinnati Redlegs made a gross error last December when they traded southpaw Don Gross to Pittsburgh.

The deal capped a five-day swapping spree—that brought the Reds a half-dozen new pitchers and gave them their No. 1 starter of the moment, Bob Purkey (3-1). But the trade gave the Pirates what the Reds have needed most—a tough relief man.

The 26-year-old lefty has won one, saved three for the Pirates and hasn't allowed a run in 14 2-3 innings. He's given up just four hits, while striking out 16.

Gross fanned four in three perfect relief innings against his old mates Tuesday night, saving a 6-3 victory for the Pirates, who have won five straight and 14 of their last 18.

It was the fourth defeat in a row for the Reds, who blew early leads in all of them.

The third place Pirates now are a half-game behind San Francisco. The Giants regained the National League lead by rocking Los Angeles 16-9 for their sixth straight victory. Philadelphia dropped Milwaukee to second, ending the Braves streak at seven 5-2.

Stan Musial finally collected his 3,000th hit, touching off a rally with a pinch double as the St. Louis Cardinals won their sixth straight, 5-3 over the Chicago Cubs.

Willie Mays and Daryl Spencer, each hitting two home runs for the second straight game, drove in 10 runs between them for the Giants, who counted 26 hits and 50 total bases, a modern NL record. Mays, with seven homers in four games, was 5-for-5. Spencer 4-for-6 with six RBI as the Giants also set a modern major league record with five players getting four or more hits. There were nine home runs in the game with Charlie Neal belting two of the Dodgers' four.

RUFUS L. LIDE

All you big game hunters living in the vicinity of Apple's Corners keep your deer rifles handy. According to a call I had from the Highway Patrol, there's a "mountain cat" on the loose.

Michael Rinaldi of 606 Smith St., Canton, reported seeing one along tht berm of the road 3 miles north of the intersection of Routes 7 and 30. This would put the varmint just north of Apple's Corner.

The call came to me Friday at 3 a.m. I assume the "mountain cat" was a mountain lion, puma or panther, whichever you care to call it. According to the witness who reported the incident to the highway patrol, he saw it. It stood about 30 inches high at the shoulder and the gentleman said he knows this type of cat when he sees it.

LET'S NOT discount the report. It could be an escapee from a carnival or circus. Regardless of how the animal might be in the vicinity, there is no closed season on mountain lions.

If he is shot, please call me. I want his picture after viewing the carcass.

Most anything can happen in this country as I have said before and it usually does. In the meantime, don't be afraid to venture outside your home. This type of cat just doesn't go sticking around attacking people for no reason.

"FISHIN'-PICKINS" of a newsy nature over the past week were rather poor although occasional catches of trophy bass were reported and witnessed. Large stringers of bullheads are being taken at Guilford along with a few 7½ inch bluegills.

Glen Conn of Lisbon caught two bass, 16 and 18 inches long. Melvin Muls of East Palestine landed a 16-incher. Kenneth Scarlet of Salem took home two 17-inchers while Richard Jancef of Monroeville, Pa. bounced a 5½ pounder up on the banks that measured 20½ inches. This one I saw. A night crawler produced this trophy

Now I ask, how many fishermen ever caught a five pound bass? Regardless of where you have fished, a five-pounder is something you do not tie on to every day in the week. Using a "back-stretcher" or a "weight-guesser" fools nobody except the individual who likes to talk big fish. Guilford has plenty of bass that go over five pounds but in order to become a member of the elite class, it is necessary to separate the men from the boys.

THE FISHERMEN around East Liverpool will love (?) me when I quote a little interview I had with Bud Steffin. Bud is a consistent fisherman in Little Beaver Creek and loves the stream. Bud tells me that he caught plenty of 16 and 18 inch smallmouth bass last year and cannot recall ever going home "skunked" when water and weather conditions were normal.

His fishing at a "two-bit" hole at Sprucevale was very productive on artificial lures. When this method failed, he resorted to the use of helgramites and leeches which are "sure-fire" bass getters. He said his brother Jack has also done as well as he had.

Bud was fishing Zepernick Lake when I approached him as he just lost a big bass. The only reason he said he was fishing at Zep's was on account of the high water in Little Beaver.

Just goes to show that the fisherman with the "know-how" get the action, while the constant complainer has nothing to live for except he and his miseries.

Detroit's 16-Hit Attack Included 2 Homers, 5 Doubles

Tribe Blasted by Tigers 11-1

DETROIT (AP)—The Cleveland Indians must drop one player from their roster by midnight tonight to get within the 25-player limit and club officials reportedly are looking for a place to send Hal Naragon.

The 29-year-old catcher, who a couple of seasons ago was the second-line receiver behind Jim Hegan—now with the Detroit Tigers—has been designated the only expendable on the roster. He has been used sparingly this season.

Roger Maris hit a leadoff home run in the first inning Tuesday night, but the Indians fell before an extra-base barrage by the Tigers and lost, 11-1, in the opener of a three game-series. The homer into the lower right field pavilion was Maris' fourth of the season.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant started for the Tribe and was tagged with the defeat, his second in five decisions. He was followed to the mound by Cal McLish, Mike Garcia and Dick Tomanek.

Frank Lary went the route for the Tigers, posting his third straight triumph after two defeats.

The Tigers scored at least once in each of the last six innings and their 16-hit assault included home runs by Charlie Maxwell and Lou Skizas, pus five doubes.

Detroit tied the score in the third inning on a walk and two singles and then routed Grant with four runs in the fourth. The outcome was never in doubt after that. The fourth-inning splurge included doubles by Harvey Kuenn, Ray Boone, Hegan and Lary.

Maxwell hit a homer with a man on base in the fifth and Billy Martin doubled home a run in the six Two singles and a sacrifice fly added another run in the seventh.

Skizas' homer came in the eighth after Frank Bolling had dropped a perfect bunt down the third base line.

Minnie Minoso, Tribe left fielder who had been to bat 16 times without a hit finally broke the slump with a single in the fourth inning.

Hoyt Wilhelm, the knuckle baller recently elevated to a starting role, will pitch for the Indians today. He wil be opposed by Paul Foytack.

Mederos to Take on Liston in 10-Rounder

CHICAGO (AP) — Julio Mederos, a Cuban heavyweight who has recorded some impressive victories, takes on Sonny Liston of Philadelphia tonight in a 10-round bout in Chicago Stadium.

Mederos, 25, has a 21-18-3 record which includes 14 knockouts and victories over such seasoned performers as Roland La Starza, Harold Johnson and Bob Satterfield. He is expected to weigh about 200 pounds to Liston's 210.

Liston. a 26 - year - old former Golden Gloves champion out of St. Louis, will be making his first national television appearance (ABC 9 p.m. est) although he has won 17 of 18 professional bouts. His only defeat came at the hands of Maty Marshall when Liston fought four rounds with a broken jaw. He avenged the loss in a rematch.

Mederos has been beaten in his last two starts. He dropped a 10-round decision to George Chuvalo in January before being knocked out by Alex Miteff last July.

SEATTLE GETS DOTTERER

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Cincinnati's Redlegs have sent catcher Dutch Dotterer to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League on a 24-hour recall basis. The move Tuesday means the Reds must shed one more player to reach the 25-man limit by Thursday.

MAKING THE GRADES

BRITAIN IS MAKING good marks for building new schools. In the last ten years, 2,600 primary (children five to ten) and 1,100 secondary (children 11 to 18) schools have been built. This building boom provided two million new places. Geoffrey Lloyd, Britain's minister of education, says this expansion even surpassed the great burst of school building in the 1870s when the main lines of Britain's national education system were laid down. Hallfield primary school, in Paddington, London, has attracted architects and teachers from the United States and Europe. St. Mark's secondary boys' school is on Fulham palace grounds.

Hallfield has pillared windows cutting out glare and following building's curve.

St. Mark's has music room balcony with a pillared projection against bad weather.

5 Big Drug Companies Indicted For Violating Antitrust Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Rogers has announced the indictment of five big drug companies on charges of antitrust violations in the sale of polio vaccine to federal, state and local governments.

He said the indictment was returned by a federal grand jury at Trenton, N.J.

The firms were named as:

Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis, Allied Laboratories, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.; American Home Products Corp., New York City; Merck & Co., Rahway, N.J., and Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit.

The companies were described as the sole producers of polio vaccine in this country from the time the success of the Salk formula was announced in April 1955.

They were accused of conspiring to fix prices and eliminate competition in sales of the vaccine to governmental agencies which were large purchasers of the vaccine.

The indictment said the total production of polio vaccine through the end of 1957 was slightly more than 205 million cubic centimeters having a value of 125 million dollars.

Of this total, about 104 million cc. were sold to public authorities. The bulk of these purchases were under the Poliomyelitis Vaccination Assistance Act of 1955. This act provided for allocation of $53,600,000 of federal funds to the states for vaccination programs.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor R. Hansen, in charge of the antitrust division, said in a statement:

"The indictment returned today charges that vaccine producers have combined to submit uniform bids to public agencies, to adopt noncompetitive terms and conditions of sale, and to establish uniform pricing methods. Price-fixing activitits involving such a significant industry and such substantial sales require criminal action by the department."

The antitrust laws provide fines up to $50,000 in the case of violations by corporations. The five drug companies were charged with violating two sections of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

As soon as the slack season sets in, I'm going to devote myself to a profound study of the relationship between the increase in the size of new safety deposit boxes and the increased sleekness of some union business agents. I some university isn't willing to give me a doctorate in philosophy for analyzing the need for such frequent visits of some union officials to the lower depths — I mean vaults — I'm through with higher education.

All this is inspired by the recent McClellan commitee revelation that an erstwhile Teamsters business agent by the name of Benny Lapensohn, fronting for just two Philadelphia locals, handled over more than a million dollars in the past few years. Brother Lapensohn today is considered by many to be a millionaire real estate operator.

All this and a haven in Bermuda, he attained by becoming the fixer for the Philadelphia Highway Truck Drivers and Helpers, Local 107, and the Garage Parking and Sevice Station Employes, Local 596 — both strong supporters of James R. Hoffa.

The highway Local 107, led by yachtsman Ray Cohen, paid well for such debonair leadership. Brother Cohen cost the local about $1,250 a week for the four years prior to the moment it began to intrigue racket buster Robert Kennedy. Of this $90,162 went for yachts, shoe trees and cameras, suits, ties and even a plaque on which to hang a stuffed fish —without which no working class leader or his friend can be expected to live.

THE OTHER local union of garage employes, who were comforted in dire moment by Brother Lapensohn, has a business agent by the name of Larry A. Thomas. When Thomas came before tousled-haried Kennedy, he refused to say if his specialty was hurling paint remover, which has an acid base, on new cars of stubborn auto dealers.

Nor was he more informative when he was asked if he was hired to beat up opponents of the union leaders. Nor would Thomas reveal whether he had bought paint remover which was actually thrown over new cars in the dealers' showrooms.

Everybody to his taste in clients, I say. But apparently Brother Lapensohn did keep busy. Over the past four years or so he moved swiftly between the law and its breakers. In some Philadelphia labor circles it was known that Benny was called in whenever one of the Teamos' boys was picked up.

The records show that Brother Lapensohn paid about 115 fines for the more muscled of the Teamsters' brethren and also handled bail bonds — all out of his own highly liquid bank account and other cash assets.

Of course, it soon became known in the trade that the officialdom of these locals were so attached to Lapensohn that you had to see him first before you were routed on to such of the nobility as Ray Cohen.

IF YOU WERE a trucker and had to see the union officials on a grievance, a slowdown or sofe dispute among the employes—as company executives must do almost daily if they run a going business—you first saw the "fixer." He made the contact and you were well received.

With Lapensohn, contacts were the thing. He knew so many businessmen that he became the tycoon of advertising soliciting for the Pennsylvania and New York State Federations of Labor. In the course of piling up linage, Lapensohn cut himself in for $197,50 from the Pennsylvania Federation's official publication.

One of his salesmen collected $12,026. Another aide, John Bokai, made $96,341. Bokal must have had taking ways about him for he has a record of 15 arrests, at least, and four convictions for toying with other people's stock, money and checks.

From the New York Federation of Labor publication, which Lapensohn represented, he "diverted" $156,0 0. He was entitled to some of this money but th eSenate committee reports that he withheld virually al the receipts. His contract with the New York Stae Federation of Labor gave him a 75 per ent cut of all sales.

This raises the whole question of such organizations as the two important state federations carelessly farming out much of the business end of their pub ications. These are not supposed to be money makers for any individual. They should be of the dues-payers. for the duespayers and controlled by the duespayers.

Mexican Roads Swap Confusion for Logic

BY JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Confusion is the order of the day in Mexico City's street names and house numbers.

But not for long.

The Mexicans soon will install a new system so simple even the latest arriving tourist will be able to find his way around.

He'll not only know where he is but how far and in what direction he has to go to find what he's looking for.

The radical but logical system was devised by Enrique Elias True, the well-to-do owner of a heavy equipment agency. It has been patented in both Merico and the United States.

It's already being put into effect in Acapulco and several United States cities have shown an interest.

Mexico City certainly needs it. The current system—if there is one—is so confusing that even veteran taxi drivers get lost.

For instance, there are 20 streets named Juarez. Some streets change names five or six times in a mile. As to numbers—well, 324 may be just next door to 32.

The new system will end all that. It works like this:

The center of the city, established by presidential decree in 1950, is the intersection of Tacuba, Puente de Alvarado, San Juan de Letran, and Sta. Maria la Redonda.

All numbers will branch from there. And they will be more than just numbers. They will represent tht actual number of meters (slightly more than a yard) away from the center of the city.

If a building is located 357 meters away, that will be its number.

Next, the city will be divided into north, south, east and west zones. Street signs in each will be colored differently. For example, north may be purple, south gold, east blue, west red.

Thus, if the street sign is purple, and a nearby number is 1610, you're just about a mile north of the center of town.

But that's not all.

The signs, about 20 by 20 inches and clearly visible, will have two arrows. The top one will be small, and will indicate the progression of numbers. If the number is 1132, and you want 1157, you follow the arrow. If you want 967, you go contrary to the arrow.

The large arrow is for traffic purposes. It will indicate the direction of the traffic flow. A red arrow will mean avenues, a green arrow ordinary streets.

Under the second large arrow will be the area's zone number. Any tourist with a map showing zones can easily pinpoint his location.

Next, and very important, will be the name of the street in large letters. This is going to be a major problem — renaming streets.

Officials promise that under the new system, streets will keep their names, not change every few blocks—and no two streets will have the same name.

The street name idea goes a step further: a small block at the bottom of the street signs will give a brief biographical sketch of the person for whom the street is named.

Experts believe this new system will make Mexico's street sign and numbering system the most perfect in the world.

Knowledge of Knot Treatment Cuts Cost of Lumber, Painting

Knowing how to paint over knots in lumber is like money in the bank.

For one thing, it means that when the wood is to be painted, it is possible to use the least expensive grade of lunber that has sound knots.

Then, too, a paint job will last longer and thus give greater value. It's distressing to see knots "burn" through paint only a short time after it is applied. Yet this happens too often to both amateur and professional painters who don't know how to treat knots properly.

A painted board not treated properly will show brown discoloration over the knot area followed by cracking and finally peeling of the paint long before the clear portion of the board needs repainting.

The cause is an excessive amount of oily materials—resin, fat, and turpentine—in the knot. They are compatable with paint and are absorbed into it, rising to the surface and causing discoloraion.

Some painters recommend dabbing shellac, aluminum paint, or occasionally spar varnish over knots to prevent paint failur e s. These so-called "sealers" will help but they still leave a lot be be desired.

Far more effective is WP-578, a formula developed by the Western Pine Association laboaratory at Portland, Oregon. WP-578 is a practically colorless, synthe t icresin sealer marketed under a wide variety of brand names. It should be brushed well over the knot and surrounding area and any pitchy streaks before the first coat of paint is applied.

Another formula, WP-578-P, is a pigmented sealer designed to combine the knot spotting and the repriming procedure. Applied in the same manner as ordinary prime coats, it will put on a coat of flat white paint at the same time as it seals the knots.

Either of these sealers may be used under oil, alkyd, or oleoresinous paints, but should never be applied under shellac or lacquer type finishes.

Properly applied,, these sealers will help to make any paint job give maximum service indoors or outside.

High Cost of U.S. Reaction to Sputnik

$3 Billion Pumped Into New Weapons

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — America's military response to the challenge of Russia's Sputniks has been an extra three billion dollars pumped into new weapons, plus the President's proposal to streamline the country's military machine.

This sum is just the initial first-year cost of the nation's extra efforts to overtake Russia in the ballistic missile field and space claim. The total military budget this year will thus come to about 41 billion dollars.

The "upkeep" cost of sustaining the accelerated pace will be about an extra billion dollars each year for the next several years.

The soring cost of "upkeep" will result from mass purchase of the new weapons whose development has now been greatly speeded up. And as new scientific breakthroughs are accomplished, new, expensive areas of research and development will be opened.

THE BIGGEST CHUNK of Sputnik reaction money, 732 million, is now going into beefing up the Strtegic Air Command. The President and his advisers apparently decided that this was the quickest, best way to deter Russia from using her new inter-continental ballistic missiles.

This money will buy 39 additional B-52 intercontinental bombers, 26 more KC135 Boeing tankers for refuelling, a quicker dispersal of SAC bases around the world, a new air-to-ground nuclear missile—the GAM-77—and new connunications equipment.

The GAM-77 can carry a hydrogen bomb, is fired from a B-52 and travels at supersonic speeds several hundred miles to its target. It adds tremendously to the odds of SAC crews returning safely from bombing missions.

THE SECOND LARGEST extra 673 million dollars, is going for rapid expansion of the Navy's Polaris weapon system. Polaris is a range ballistic missile fired under water from a submarine. This new money will put five Polaris-firing subs into the fleet by 1961.

This is the most radical change in America's military strategy since the creation of SAC just after World War II. If present plans are followed it will end up costing many billions of dollars for new atomic subs and Polaris missiles.

Bassistic missiles other than Polaris got the third largest piece of emergency money, 453 million dollars. The Jupiter and Thor IRBMs have been accelerated and both weapons rushed into production.

The Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile was already getting all the money it could use. The Titan ICBM has also been speeded up.

The Pershing solid-propellant missile with a range over 200 miles is another project in this category. Other secret programs are included in this group.

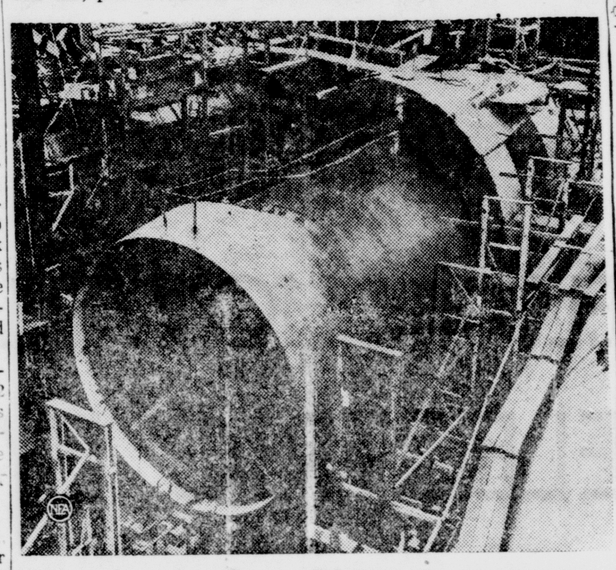
FOURTH LARGEST Sputnik inspired extra is 393 million dollars added to anti-missile missile studies. The Army's part is the Nike Zeur which will be the hardware of an anti-missile system. The Air Force is doing the electronic warning system work.

Other extras include 112 million dollars for anti-submarine warfare, 88 million for other new Army missiles, and 140 million for special projects to be done under the proposed Advanced Research Projects Agency. The rest of the additional money inspired by Sputniks is scattered over thousands of accelerated activities.

The three billion includes money added to the 1958 defense budget, extras included in the regular 1959 budget before it was sent to Congress, and Ike's most recent request for 1.6 billion to be added to the 1959 budget. It does not include the requests for expanded civilian programs.

Strangely enough, the one post-Sputnik project which has done most of all to allay U.S. fears over Russia's lead in space cost so little that Pentagon budget experts can't even isolate it. It's the estimated two million dollars put into the Army's Jupiter C. program to launch the first U.S. satellite, Explorer I.

TO BEEF UP SAC, 39 more B-52 intercontinental bombers like this one, plus 62 additional aerial tankers.



TO BEEF UP POLARIS, five new ballistic missile subs like this one taking shape on the ways at Groton, Conn.

WHY ARE WE PROUD OUR SON HAS A NEWSPAPER ROUTE?

BECAUSE any parent is proud of their son when people point him out as an alert, reliable, young businessman, who is using his spare time every day to serve his neighborhood with its most popular newspaper.

We are glad, too, because such work enables him to earn so much of the money he needs for clothes, sports, hobbies, and fun—as well as build up a savings account that will help him go on to college. Also, because his route supplements his school studies so nicely with practical business experience.

MOST OF ALL, we are happy because his daily newspaper work is helping him to develop into a more manly, self-reliant and resourceful young fellow. And that's why we both are giving him every encouragement to make a success of this first business venture which means so much to his future.

Educators Perplexed By Demands to Drop 'Progressive' Methods

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — School experts ar perplexed by recent demands that educators drop "progressive education" and return to the methods and programs of 30 - 50 years ago.

Charges that it's the arch villain of the nation's schools give teachers headaches as they wonder haw the modern educational technique could be so controversial and often so completely misunderstood.

Education officials insist that progressive education is not a system which allows children to talk back to teachers, take easy courses and generally dictate the operation of the school. Instead, they explain it's an effort to improve teaching by applying techniques based on the latest advances in psychology, sociology and child development research.

One perplexed school expert declares: "We expect business, medicine and all fields to be progressive, especially where our pocketbooks and lives are involved. Are we so unconcerned about our minds that we insist on requiring schooling today to be like the schooling we had 30 or 40 years ago?"

DR. SAM LAMBERT, head of the National Education Association's Research Division, explains that progressive education tries to bring teaching methods up to date so they can better prepare children for the perplexities of modern living. In fact, he points out that progressive education employs techniques that critical parents often take for granted and sometimes even praise.

For instance, it strongly emphasizes making a subject as interesting as possible, Dr. Lambert says. One way progressive education gets at this problem is through the principle of learning by doing.

Education experts believe this technique sparks needed motivation that makes children eager to learn. They believe it's far more effective than the old system effective than the old system which preached that the best way to make a child study was to keep him scared. "Psychologists have proved that people don't learn through a fear technique," Dr. Lambert explains.

ANOTHER CONCEPT of progressive education is to teach each child according to his individual capabilities Educators point to psychological studies which prove that all children don't absorb the same amount of knowledge in the same amount of time. That's why advocates of progressive education believe teachers should pay attention to the needs of each pupil instead of applying one rigid standard to the whole class.

DR. LAMBERT declares that progressive education never advocated the idea that children be allowed to run wild in school. He says, however, that a few educators who misunderstood the principles of the modern teaching system, did allow too much freedom in the classroom. Dr. Lambert believes that the bad reputation which progressive education has among the general public stems partly from these isolated cases.

Actually, progressive education began in the U. S. in 1919 when a group of teachers banded together in an organization called the Progressive Education Association. Their goal was to try to eliminate old 19th Centruy teaching mehods and replace them with ideas based on recent discoveries in psychology. The organization lasted until 1955. The late philosopher John Dewey of Columbia University was a leading advocate of progressive education.

ALTHOUGH PEA is no longer operating, the impact of its ideas are being felt in schools throughout the country. A recent survey among 2,500 teachers counters the charge that "the American teacher has been taken in by the progressive educator."

The teachers were asked if they tconsidered themselves progressive, traditional or a combination of both.

More than 46 per cent answered that they used both teaching methods but leaned toward progressive. About 43 per cent, who also combined both techniques, said they leaned toward traditional.

About seven per cent believed their teaching was completely progressive. Only slightly more than three per cent said they were strictly traditional.

'Devout' Insect Rated Best Control of Destructive Pests by Experts

Praying Mantis Is Help to Gardener

In the insect world there are literally hundreds of ugly critters which could not be classified as photogenic, yet some of them, for all their "ugly duckling" appearance, are "worth their weight in gold."

One of these is the insect commonly known as the praying mantis. He's an onery lookig cuss and appears big enough to throw his weight around with considerable authority. But the mantis is, gardening experts agree, just about the best control for destructive pests that can establish a hunting ground in a garden.

THE PRAYING MANTIS gets his name from the peculiar way in which he holds his forelegs. The pose gives rise to a notion that the manti sis praying. Whether doing it for past sins or in hopes that ome unwary victim will chance by is anyone's guess.

But there's a method to this madness, for those legs can be extended in the twinkling of an eye to grab any insect whose flirtation with fate finds him within striking distance of the devout-looking fanatic.

The mantis is harmless to man and to garden produce. He and his kind are carnivorous and feed on aphids, caterpillars an other soft-bodied insects which can litterally destroy a garden in a mat ter of days.

It's easy to get a mantis onto your property. All that is needed is a mantis egg case or two. These, tied to stems or stalks in a garden, are guarantee that the mantis will become a relatively permanent resident.

There are, of course, skeptics who say mantises will eat bees and wasps, those individuals so necesary to the procese of pollination. And, thee seemingly lordly creatures are endowed with an appetitite for each other, in the event other food supplies are depleted.

YET GARDENERS who have experienced the benefits of having mantises around point out that the few bees and wasps they catch are minute indeed compared to the beetles, aphids and other harmful insects they do away with. What's more, experts, point out that chemical insecticides, often leave toxic residues on soil and plants, to say nothing of the foods taken from the garden for human consumption.

The mantis is a relative of the grasshopper. Females lay egg masses several times in a seaon. A tough covering protect them through the winter and as spring rolls around the fledgling mantises emerge from their case, raring to go on the garden' worst enemies. Between 50 and 100 mantises appear from each egg case.

How many of these creatures does it take to protect a garden? Zoologists say one egg case for each major shrub or tree or four cases per quarter acre where no shrubbery exists wil do nicely.

These cases can be tied in an area any time. They are exceptionally hardy and sub - freezing temperatures have no harmful effect on them. Egg cases can be sent through the mails, but only during the dormant period — roughly Nov. 1 to May 15.

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Premenstrual Symptoms Often Vary

A great deal has appeared in the medical journals of late on the subject of premenstrual tension.

This is a common disorder of women in which varying degrees of mental and physical discomfort are encountered from two days to two weeks before the monthly period.

One discussion of the subject suggests that the symptoms commonly include a feeling of mild depression or anxiety. This is associated with headache, sleeplessness, emotional instability, fatigue painful swelling of the breast, abdominal bloating, low abdominal pain, nausea and change in sexual desires.

Another writer lists still more symptoms—backache, leg cramps, weight gain with or without visible edema (dropsy) of the ankles and face, marked increase of acneform eruptions (pimples), asthma, irritability and restlessness, vertigo (dizziness), as well as marked changes in thirst, appetite and sexual desire.

In one discussion of premenstrual tension recently published, it was pointed out that this is the cause of much domestic and marital discord.

One patient, the writer said, had an uncontrollable desire to throw her children, to whom she was devoted, out of the window. Another would threaten her husband with a knife at this time each month.

Fortunately, such violent desirts are rather unusual.

However, even if only a few women have such symptoms some medical attention to this subject is certainly in order.

The underlying cause is not entirely clear, though suspicion certainly points to changes in hormone secretion.

These changes are thought to lead to three effects: retention of water, disturbance in burning of starches in the body and increase in the number of certain cells in some parts of the body.

The question of treatment is important.

In one series of medical articles on this subject it seemed agreed that considerable relief could be provided by a diet in which the starches were reduced, salt was cut down and proteins and fats increased.

Also, the administration of certain vitamins was often of help. In addition, there are several drugs which are claimed to reduce the symptoms of premenstrual tension.

Certainly not every woman suffers enough premenstrual tension to require medical attention. Indeed, most women seem to have comparatively little difficulty, though a certain degree of unhappiness and discomfort is undoubtedly common.

Most of the symptoms can be exaggerated by paying them too much attention. But for those who do have a good deal of regular trouble, treatment by diet and perhaps hormones or drugs seems worth trying.

New Senate Office Building An Oasis of Public Plumbing

... BY JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA)— The new Senate Office Building may soon become a mecca for the confused, distressed Capitol Hill tourist in search of a rest room. The enormous white marble structure has about 160 of them.

Vistors can easily find 36 public rest rooms on six of the building's nine floors.The ladies' rooms are decorated in rich pink hues while the men's are colored green.

Each of the 40 Senate office suites has three rest rooms. One is for the exclusive use of the senator. The other two are reserved for his men and women staff members.

Other est rooms are spotted throughout the spacious structure for the press, kitchen crews and maintenance personnel.

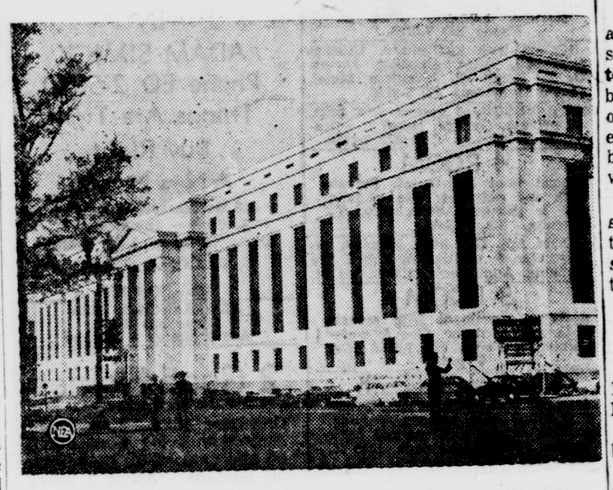
THIS OASIS OF vital public plumbing is only one important attraction that the 24 million dollar building will offer Washington tourists when it's ready for occupancy next fall.

An elaborate auditorium, capable of seating 500 people, will also be available for such events as appearances by important dignitaries. After the auditorium's completion, visitors may also be able to watch dramatic Senate investigative hearings from the soft comfort of theater seats. Television cameras and radio equipment will operate from a large projection room located in the back.



NEW MECCA IN WASHINGTON — Inside the new Senate Office Building's white marble walls, 160 rest rooms.

Architects explain that emphasis in designing the building was placed on making it as functional as possible. Anyone who labors under the philosophy that a man works best when he's comfortable will probably agree that the designers succeeded.

Senators who drive to work can park their cars in a gigantic basement garage. Ramps leading from the street to the parking area are inlaid with special snow-melting equipment.

After parking, the senators can step into an elevator that will silently whisk them to their office floors. All corridors will be bathed in fluorescent light which will pour from long rectangular fixtures built into the ceiling.

FLUORESCENT LIGHTS also will illuminate all rooms except those used for committee hearings. These will have incandescent lights.

As senators stride down the halls, they will pass walls partially covered with expensive marble; all-marble water fountains and bronze elevator doors. Upon opening the walnut veneered office doors, they will probably find their staffs hard at work in five-room suites.

Rubber tile is used for flooring in the staff rooms. Soft carpeting, however, will cover the floor in each enator's private office.

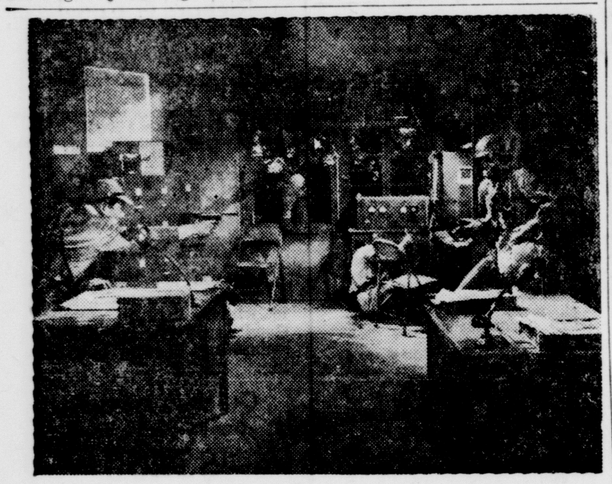
WHEN LUNCHTIME rolls around, senators can eat in a special dinning room reserved exclusively for their use. Another dining room will be equipped to serve senators accompanied by guests. Staff members and regular visitors will be fed in the completely air conditioned building's large cafeteria.

After lunch, senators can relax and improve their tans at the same time by taking an elevator to the private sun deck which will be equipped with showers. Another room is expected to be turned into a gym for senators who believe in healthy body building workouts.

A subway is also under construction to transport senators to the Capiitol, two blocks away.The subway cars will be eauipped with the latest safety devices.



ACTION HIGHLIGHTS the screen is this scene from American-International's "Suicide Battalion" which is on the same program with "Jet Attack" coming to the Salem Drive-In Theatre Sunday.

A SALEM NEWS WANT AD

Talks Business To Everybody

. . . and Is Heard

If it's a salesman you want, you'll look far before you'll find a better one than a News Want Ad.

Small as it is, it packs a mighty wallop, and gets in places where a two-legged salesman can't get the tip of his toe. There are no barriers a Want Ad can't hurdle. It encounters no sales resistance because it's paid for by the advertiser and sought by the reader who buys The News to know what's for sale and who has it for sale. It's Wanted!

A News Want Ad is a tireless worker for anyone willing to hire its services.

It is a guide to business opportunities, often a promoter of an enterprise. It sells real estate, unused commodities and has a voice in thousands of transactions like no other medium of advertising.

It talks business to everybody, and is heard. For the price you pay, a News Want Ad is a force in selling you cannot afford to ignore. Better than 82,000 individual ads have been published in The News during the past twelve months and 82,000 of anything is worth consideration.

So, for things you want to buy, sell or rent— or for any other need — read and use News Want Ads.
